HULL FOR 'REAL DEAL' AT HAVANA. Leaving the capital for Havana where he will attend the conference of the 21 American republics, Secretary of State Cordell Hull (left) said the conference will deal "realistically" with its problems. At the station to see Secretary and Mrs. Hull off was Dr. Pedro Martinez Fraga, Cuban ambassador.

HULL PREDICTS RALLY SUCCESS

Pan-American Delegates To Open Conference Sunday

By The Associated Press.

HAVANA, July 20—Secretary of State Cordell Hull, returning to Cuba for the first time since he fought for the island's freedom in the Spanish-American war, expressed confidence today the Havana conference of American republics will demonstrate their "vigor and vitality" in working together "for their common interest."

In a brief statement on landing from Miami, Secretary Hull recalled his experiences on the island as a young captain of Tennessee volunteers and said he returned now as "a friend among friends."

The conference, which opens tomorrow, was called at the United States' suggestion after the Nazi invasion of the Low Countries to discuss western hemisphere defense and economy.

Accompanied By U. S. Aids

"We are meeting to discuss problems essential to the life of the America," Hull's statement said. "I have no doubt that this consultation will prove an added demonstration of the vigor and the vitality of American republics working together for their common interest."

Secretary Hull was accompanied by state department aids and trade, monetary and agricultural experts.

In informal exchanges Hull hopes to smooth out some differences existing among the republics.

Delegates have expressed a hope he will produce a solution to the problem of bringing Argentina into line with her 20 sister republics. Argentina frequently has expressed unwillingness to cooperate in any plan which might imperil her trade relations with Europe's totalitarian states.

'Secret' Proposals Rumored

Rumors that Hull is bring "secret" proposals from Washington were heard around the National hotel, headquarters of most of the delegates, but went without confirmation.

The secretary of state and members of his delegation reached Havana in mid-morning and were greeted by the Cuban secretary of state, Miguel Angel Campa, who represented President-elect Fulgencio Batista, American Ambassador George S. Messersmith and members of his staff.

Hull, leaving Miami last night for his first visit to Cuba since he came here as a captain of Tennessee volunteers in the Spanish-American war, said U. S. aims are to prevent "the calamities of other parts of the world" from reaching

WILLKIE DENIES NOBLE MOTIVES

Says He Seeks Presidency To Present Convictions

By The Associated Press.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., July 20—Wendell Willkie settled back into his vacation routine today after declaring, in a brief address at Denver, he will "make no pretense of noble motives" in seeking the presidency.

"I frankly sought the opportunity to run for president on the Republican ticket because I have some deep-seated convictions I want to present to the American people and which, if I am elected, I want to carry into execution," the nominee said.

Willkie made the talk while a luncheon guest yesterday at the Denver Union stockyards. He conferred informally with cattle and sheep men and visited a beet sugar plant, the federal veterans' hospital near Denver and an 80-acre beet, melon and corn farm before flying back to Colorado Springs. He said he plans to get a "good rest" over the weekend.

Cobb Promises Support

While at Denver, Willkie receiver a telegram from Don R. Burton a friend now at Bohemian Grove Calif., advising him that Irvin S. Cobb, the Paducah, Ky., humorist, intends to support the Republican nominee as "a real fellow Democrat."

Cobb was reported to have sent the following message to Sen. Edward R. Burke, Democrat, Nebraska, who recently announced he was for Willkie:

"As a life-long Democrat, I regret that we have to wait from 1896 to 1940 for a presidential nominee who was named neither by party bosses nor party patronage. As a life-long Democrat, I rejoice that a real fellow Democrat has been so nominated even though it took a Republican convention to nominate him.

"The Kelly machine in Chicago, the Hague machine in New Jersey were against him. If the leaders thereof weren't snarled up with jail sentences, the Long machine in New Orleans and the Pendergast machine in Kansas City also would be against him. It appears that there is nobody much for him except just people.

Speaks From Truck Bed

"But if such anti-third term presidents as Washington, Jefferson, Jackson, Buchanan and Wilson were alive, it seems certain they would be for him. As a life-long Democrat still seeking the congenial company of practitioners of the political faith of my fathers, please enroll me as a high provate in the rear ranks of the incurable Democrats, Willkie for President Club."

A truck bed with bales of hay around the edge served as a speaker's platform for the Republican nominee when he addressed the luncheon gathering at the stock yards. He said:

"I know something about the democratic way of life, not from books or theorists, but from experience. I know the democratic way of life as an experience.

"I have worked on the ranges and the farm. I learned about civil liberties, not in textbooks, but in a hard struggle for survival.

"I know your aspirations and your hopes.

"I know you resolve that this great democracy shall be preserved at all hazards.

"If you elect me president you will have someone who understands the everyday problems of everyday people. I have lived them and glory in it. My route was the hard route, not the soft one."

NEW YORK, July 20 — Annabella, screen star, is reported "improving satisfactorily" after a major operation.

PRESIDENT WILL WAGE DRIVE BY RADIO, PAPERS

Campaign To Be Unusual As Chief Executive Remains Close To Capitol

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 20 — This year, the campaign is going to be "different".

Wendell Willkie, the Republican presidential nominee, may follow the traditional routine and stump the country. But Franklin D. Roosevelt, on the basis of present plans, will divide most of his time this summer and fall between Washington and his Hyde Park, N. Y., home.

And what the chief executive has to say to the voters will be transmitted, according to existing schedules, more through the press and radio than from the rear platform of a campaign train or in public auditoriums.

Garner Maintains Silence

Much as Mr. Roosevelt likes to travel, he told the Democratic convention in his speech accepting a third term nomination that "the President in these days" must "remain close to the seat of government."

As to the chief executive's acceptance, Vice President Garner maintained resolute silence. From other quarters, however, there came continued third term criticism, predictions of Democratic bolts to Willkie, and also assertions that the third term issue will be unimportant.

The development of the vast defense program might offer the President an excuse to make some inspection trips to defense installations and projects.

Defense Tie Indicated

In 1936 he made a couple of "non-political" campaign trips, on which he missed few speech-making opportunities.

As it is shaping up at the moment, the chief executive's campaign, like his third-term acceptance speech, will be tied closely with the strengthening of America's defenses.

Democratic leaders say they think that he will continue to tell the country that he is looking after the national welfare and unable to spare time for campaign swings or to run the risk of being on the road when another international crisis might arise.

They said he then could ask the voters to answer with ballots in November whether they want him to continue to watch out for the national interests.

'Totalitarian Convention'

In such a campaign, they said, a large share of efforts to build strength for the Democratic ticket would have to be left to state and local party leaders.

Sen. Vandenberg (R) of Michigan, meanwhile, called the Roosevelt-Wallace ticket the product of a "totalitarian convention" and asserted that the third term issue "emphasizes all the hazards, mistakes and errors of the new deal because it proposes to perpetuate them."

Sen. Burke (D) of Nebraska, who previously had announced support for Wendell Willkie, Republican nominee, forecast a national organization of Democrats opposed to a third term for Roosevelt.

Stephen Chadwick, former national commander of the American Legion, issued a statement through the Republican national committee saying he will support Willkie because he thinks a third term is "a danger to our democratic processes."

DRIVER TAGGED TWICE IN PARKING CAMPAIGN

Threat Of Warrants Brings Violators With Fines

The police department today continued its enforcement drive on parking laws, tagging one motorist twice within 24 hours for overtime.

He is James Fisher, tagged Friday on East Sixth st., and Thursday on Washington st. His car carried license M-774-L, issued at Canton, but police said Mr. Fisher is a local man.

Special Patrolman George B. Kidd tagged three other parkers late yesterday: Charles W. Harrison, overtime on East Sixth st.; Harold Palmer, overtime on East Sixth st., and John J. McKee, overtime on West Fifth st.

Indications are today that no warrants will have to be issued against unpaid fines due within a 48-hour limit, as only one of the 12 tagged Tuesday had not been paid today. Others could not be located or have made arrangements to pay.

Municipal Judge Frank Grosshans warned Wednesday that motorists who do not pay within the time-limit will be haled into court on warrants, with the prospect of paying $6 costs in addition. The fine also may be posted as bond at the police station.

Army Staff Shakeup Makes Brooke Head Of England's Troops

By The Associated Press.

LONDON, July 20—Great Britain has taken another step toward meeting any German attack, by shaking up her high army command.

The new British preparedness measure was the elevation of Lieut.-Gen. Sir Alan Brooke to chief of home defense forces.

Sir Alan, who had held the important southern command, replaces Gen. Sir Edmund Ironside, who was made a field marshal to be available either as an advisor or in active service.

Gen. C. J. E. Auchinleck was named to the southern command and Viscount Gort, who headed the British Expeditionary Force in France, was named inspector general to forces for training.

Sir Alan is a World war hero who won additional fame as commander of the Second corps of the British Expeditionary Force in France in the present war.

A military figure at 56, he is an expert on gunnery and machinery. He played a large part in mechanizing the army.

PRESIDENT SIGNS HATCH MEASURE

Clean Politics Law Becomes Effective Immediately

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 20 — President Roosevelt has signed legislation extending to many thousands of state and local government employes existing restrictions on political activity by federal workers and limiting the size of campaign contributions.

The White House made the announcement today.

The new law, which will affect officials and employes working on projects financed in any part by federal funds, becomes effective at once. Its author is Sen. Hatch (D) of New Mexico, who also wrote the original Hatch act restricting political activities of federal employes.

Contributions Limited

Persons covered by the act will be forbidden to use their position to influence the result of an election or to take an active part in political campaigns. They also will be prohibited from coercing other employes for political purposes.

Individual political contributions in campaigns for federal office will be limited to $5,000 in any calendar year and no political committee will be permitted to spend or receive more than $3,000,000 in any one year.

Penalties Are Provided

In 1936 the Republican national committee reported expenditures exceeding $8,000,000, while the Democratic national committee reported an outlay of more than $5,000,000.

Penalties for violations will range from dismissal, and under certain circumstances withholding of federal funds, to a fine and imprisonment.

Various elective officials will be exempted from the prohibition against taking part in a political campaign.

Don't Delay Entering The Review Summer Menu, Recipe Contest

Have you, housewives of East Liverpool and the tri-state district, entered the first annual hot weather recipe and menu contest sponsored by East Liverpool merchants and The East Liverpool Review.

If not, don't delay another minute, but bring or mail to the Hot Weather Menu Contest Editor, one of your numerous favorite menus, together with a complete recipe of your favorite "dish" on the menu. Mail or bring the entry to The Review office on Washington st.

The field is wide when it comes to recipes, and housewives may enter one or all six of the classifications. Seventeen awards amounting to $50 will be distributed by the sponsors to the winning entrants.

First, second and third awards are offered in each of the following classifications: picnic menus, noon luncheon menus, Sunday supper menus, dinner menus and summer party menus. First and second awards are offered in the contest for homemade soft drinks.

The contest, which opened Monday, will close Saturday, July 27. The entries will be judged by competent judges and the winners will be announced in The Review's special hot weather menu section on July 31.

DOG WARDEN TO START DRIVE IN CITY MONDAY

A citywide ban on stray dogs is slated to begin Monday in East Liverpool when County Dog Warden Dan Butch will patrol the city to pick up all dogs running loose, regardless if they wear licenses.

The action results from a strict and indefinite quarantine on strays throughout the county, imposed by Dr. Seward Harris, county health commissioner, who added the ban will be lifted "90 days after the last case of rabies."

Nazi Bombers Lash Britain In War's 'Severest' Attacks

GERMAN RADIO HURLS WARNING OVER AND OVER

Berlin Says English Hopes Doomed By 'Rowdyish' Reception Of Offer

By The Associated Press.

BERLIN, July 20 — Informed German quarters today saw hope for acceptance of Adolf Hitler's "last" peace offer doomed by its "rowdyish" reception in London.

Official quarters maintained silence on the reception accorded the fuehrer's peace offer by the British and it is believed unlikely that any statement will be issued immediately.

Informed sources said, however, that German radio stations will keep on dinning Hitler's words into English ears until the proverbial man-in-the-street knows exactly what is in store for him if he does not get rid of the ruling "plutocratic clique".

English Translation Brpadcast

An English translation is being broadcast "frequently", they said.

It was emphasized that it now is solely up to the fuehrer to decide the next step and what it will be.

It was announced officially that Hitler had a "long conference" with Italian Foreign Minister Galeazzo Ciano, who occupied a front row seat at yesterday's reichstag session.

The question of how much breathing space the fuehrer will give England before launching the long-predicted attack in force—since he set no time limit in his offer—remains his secret.

Informed sources said unofficially that the treatment of Hitler's speech yesterday by the British radio and Reuters (British news agency) was "rowdyish, boorish and rude."

Hitler Seen Approachable

These sources previously had indicated that any hint of British interest would delay the attack at least temporarily.

Presumably Hitler is approachable by any channel England might choose. It was recalled that France's capitulation was arranged through Spanish diplomatic mediation and that William C. Bullitt, United States ambassador to France, conveyed the news that Paris had been left undefended.

That Hitler suspects there may be no response was indicated in these words from his declaration to the reichstag yesterday:

"Possibly Mr. Churchill again will brush aside this statement of mine by saying that its merely born of fear and of doubt in our final victory. In that case, I shall have relieved my conscience in regard to the things to come."

Hitler Follows Routine Business

If Britain does not reply favorably, Hitler predicted "a great empire will be destroyed, an empire which it was never my intention to destroy or even to harm."

Hitler began going through routine business today, receiving the credentials of newly-accredited foreign diplomats before seeing Count Ciano.

The new Chilean ambassador to Germany, Col. Tobias Barros, Finnish Minister Toivo Mikael Kivimaki and new Rumanian minister Alexander Romalo went to the chancellery shortly before noon to present their credentials in the customary brief ceremony.

Bullitt Reaches U. S. To Open Conferences With Roosevelt, Hull

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 20—William Bullitt, U. S. ambassador to France, returned from Europe on the Dixie Clipper today to confer with President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Hull after having been out of effective contact with them for more than five weeks.

He explained that despite the war turmoil in France he had been able to communicate with U. S. officials most of the time, but not in the volume nor with the certainty and privacy necessary for the normal transaction of his duties.

He indicated that he expects to return to France. He is going to Washington after stopping off at his brother Orville's home in Philadelphia.

The ambassador declined to discuss possible developments abroad, turning away, among other queries, the question:

"Do you think England still has a chance?"

"That," he said, "is future, isn't it?"

He spoke freely, however, about what he had seen.

In German-occupied France, he said, "the French people have all the magnificent qualities they always have had."

HITLER TELLS BRITISH: 'END WAR OR BE DESTROYED!' As Fuehrer Adolf Hitler concluded a "final appeal" to Great Britain to end the war or be destroyed, the Kroll Opera House in Berlin, where the reichstag met to hear the address, echoed with the cheers of the members. This International Illustrated News radiophoto shows Der Fuehrer, indicated by arrow, as he received the outstretched-arm salute from high Nazi officials on the rostrum with him.

DRIVE WILL CITE ACCIDENT PERIL

Prevention, Too, Will Be Aim Of Safety Campaign

Accident hazards and their prevention will be stressed in the event-packed program rounded into shape today for East Liverpool's Safety week scheduled July 27 through Aug. 3.

The event, designed to point out danger that lurks every day at home, at work and on the highway, will begin with the dedication of a death-o-meter on the Diamond. The large chart, slated for erection near the police booth, will keep a day-by-day record of city accident deaths and injuries.

Open Displays Monday

Next Saturday also will mark the opening of displays in store windows, featuring special safety equipment, plus exhibits at Safety week headquarters on East Sixth st.

One feature of the eight-day program will be a fund drive of $4,050 to boost East Liverpool's police cruiser force to four and provide it with two-way radio communication.

This fund drive will be conducted by the Citizens' Safety council.

While Junior Chamber of Commerce members are participating in other phases of the Safety week plans, they will not take part in the radio-cruiser fund solicitation. The Jaycees' safety committee has considerable work assigned to it in connection with demonstrations, parades, exhibits and programs.

The program will be marked with days dedicated to the safety of

2-OCEAN FLEET BILL SIGNED BY PRESIDENT

$4,610,000,000 Is Provided In Defense Measure

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 20—President Roosevelt has signed into law a bill authorizing a $4,610,000,000 expansion of the navy designed to give the United States a "two ocean" fleet capable of meeting any possible hostile combination.

The White House announced the signing today, while Mr. Roosevelt was cruising on the Potomac river.

The chief executive already has asked congress to provide $83,000,000 to start work on the new program which, when completed in 1946 or 1947, would give the nation a total of 701 fighting craft built around the world's most powerful single aggregation of capital ships—35 dreadnaughts.

In addition to about 200 new surface ships and submarines to cost $4,610,000,000 with the additional facilities they will require, the new law authorizes the navy to acquire for $600,000,000 a total of 15,000 airplanes, 50 percent more than the previously authorized maximum. If the President deems them necessary even more may be ordered.

CONGRESS WILL RESUME MONDAY

Talk Grows For Continuous Session Of Legislators

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 20—Taking their cue from President Roosevelt, most members of congress talked today of combining a national political campaign with a continuous session of congress.

"I pity anybody who proposes to adjourn with the present temper of the country," said Sen. Vandenberg (R) of Michigan.

From the Democratic ranks, Sen. George (D) of Georgia, predicted that the pending "excess profits" tax proposal, compulsory military training and an assortment of defense measures will keep legislative machinery busy for many weeks.

Tax Levies Hold Attention

With both major political conventions out of the way, congress will reassemble Monday after nearly a month of slight activity.

House members centered attention on new tax levies aimed at any heavy profits created by the multi-billion dollar preparedness programs and intended to supplement the $1,000,000,000 "national defense" tax measure recently rushed through congress.

On the senate side, Democratic Leader Barkley of Kentucky and Republican Leader McNary of Oregon have a "gentlemen's agreement" that no important legislation will be acted upon next week.

McNary, the Republican candidate for vice president, has scores of personal details to handle while Barkley, along with many other Democrats, needs a few days to recuperate from the Chicago convention.

Inasmuch as President Roosevelt announced that he will stay close to his job here in Washington during the political campaign, many members of the house and senate said they will adopt this same strategy for their own re-election drives.

One of the few dissenters, Sen. Norris (Ind.) of Nebraska said he sees "no good reason why congress should not adjourn after we clean up the odds and ends."

2 AT DAIRY OVERCOME WITH AMMONIA FUMES

Two persons partially were overcome by ammonia fumes caused by the breaking of a half-inch pipe on the refrigerating system at 10:50 a. m. today at the plant of the Purity Ice Cream and Milk Co. on Chester ave.

The victims were Arthur G. Dutterer, the owner, and Carmen Patterson, an employe. They were assisted outside the plant where they were treated by Dr. John Fraser. Three other employes escaped.

The break occurred when the pipe was struck by a truck which was being driven from an unloading platform at the rear of the dairy. Mr. Dutterer and Mr. Patterson were taken ill while attempting to shut off the system.

The escaping gas set fire to the roof of the boiler room. Firemen donned gas masks to extinguish the blaze. The damage to the building was slight.

ENGLISH IGNORE HITLER'S FINAL 'PEACE APPEAL'

German Planes Hurl Bombs Length Of Island During Morning Offensive

By The Associated Press.

LONDON, July 20 — German bombers blasted the length of Britain from John O'Groats to Land's End today in pointed emphasis to Adolf Hitler's "last chance" peace offer, which found Britons coldly contemptuous.

Roaring across the coast in the early morning the Nazis swarmed over the country throughout the day in one of the worst raids of the war.

The day-long attacks were capped in mid-afternoon with a lightning raid on ships anchored in a southern English harbor. Seventeen planes let go their bomb cargoes with a mighty din, but apparently no ships were hit.

Four Airmen Taken Prisoner

Anti-aircraft and fighting planes, kept busy fending off the attackers, broke up this foray. One German plane was believed shot down in the channel and observers said two others might have been downed by anti-aircraft fire.

In southeast England, four German airmen, one of them wounded, were taken prisoner when their bullet-shattered craft fluttered to earth.

Defense forces battled raiders over southwest England, Wales and southeast Scotland.

A lone Nazi bomber let go three bombs over a northeast Scottish coastal town, badly damaging a school.

Britain Ignores Appeal

Britain ignored Hitler's "final appeal" for peace on his own terms and indicated she is ready for the air raids.

A scornful silence was the government's answer to the German dictator, who yesterday gave England the choice of coming to terms or facing "total destruction".

It was intimated that Prime Minister Churchill might have some comment to make in the house of commons next Tuesday, but official circles point out that he had emphasized only last Sunday Britain's determination to fight on to a finish and they declared that Hitler's "offer" scarcely merits an answer.

The press and public were more vocal in their reaction to the fuehrer's speech, which was viewed in many quarters as nothing more than an effort to drive a wedge between Churchill and the people.

Hitler's assertion that the British people are being led astray by their leaders in continuing the war was heard by the public by radio and was read in the press, which carried full texts of the speech.

The London Times summed up the issue by declaring that Hitler has admitted the "perfunctory" nature of his offer by failing to mention any terms on which peace is possible, and added:

"We can do not other than fight to the last extremity."

As though to emphasize Hitler's threats, German warplanes struck at southeast and southwest Scotland and southwest England early this morning, continuing a series of raids which yesterday produced one of the greatest aerial battles of the war.

Bombs were dropped on several

SUMMER CONTINUES DISTRICT BLITZKRIEG

87 Degrees Here Are Under High 90's In Other Parts

Summer today continued its assault on the East Liverpool district, bringing the valley its first lengthy taste of real hot weather, sending the thermometer to the upper registers of the 80's and preparing the week-end for picnics, outings, park attendance and countryside frolic.

The U. S. weather station at Swaney airport recorded a high of 89 today at noon, while the dam 8 reading was 87. The high yesterday was 89. Indications were that the city would be sweltering late this afternoon with 92 or more. Continued fair and warm is forecast tonight and Sunday.

The weather caught up with the season in the middle west with only temporary relief in sight.

Temperatures in the 90's were predicted for the second consecutive day in Ohio.

Thundershowers were forecast for parts of the mid-continent but there was little prospect of general relief before Monday.

Blistering heat from the southwest which overspread the plains states yesterday brought 100 degree temperatures to many regions.

THREE HURT IN SERIES OF DISTRICT MISHAPS

Two Autos, Motorcycle And Truck Figure In Crashes

Three persons suffered minor injuries Friday in two accidents near East Liverpool involving two autos, a truck and a motorcycle.

Mrs. Frank Craven, 69, of 822 Green lane, suffered a neck injury and abbrasions to her left arm in a crash on the new Y. and O. road south of Rock camp at 2:30 p. m. She was a passenger in the auto driven by her son, Frank R. Craven, 37, same address.

State highway patrolman claim the accident occurred when a truck driven by Theron Belden, 27, of Kensington attempted to make a left turn into a lane, the sedan crashing into the rear of the truck.

Wilford Moran, 25, and his wife, Mrs. Veronica Moran, 22, of New York city, were bruised and lacerated at 7:30 p. m. in a collision between their motorcycle and an automobile driven by Eileen Dotson, 15, of 113 West Sixth st., at the southern junction of the Y. and O. road with route 30.

Highway patrolmen said that the Dotson car was passing a truck, and met the motorcycle, which was traveling north in the opposite direction. The Dotson girl has a driver's permit, they said.

The victims were taken to physician's offices in East Liverpool where their injuries were dressed.

SAFETY

children, pedestrians, motorists, workers and housewives. It will be climaxed Aug. 3 with a gigantic parade of industrial floats, civic and fraternal entries and other organizations.

Ministers Pledge Help

The city Ministerial association has pledged its cooperation for safety sermons to open Sunday morning's program, said A. R. Curry, acting chairman of the Safety council. In the afternoon, outdoor memorial services will be held on the municipal building steps in memory of persons who died during the last year as the result of accidents.

At the same time, the city will be presented with a safety flag, which will fly at all times, remaining at half-mast 24-hours after any fatal accident.

Safe driver's day, scheduled July 29, calls for driving tests in an oil company's trailer test equipment, in addition to contests for women motorists.

"Safety lane" examinations will be given, testing auto's headlights, brakes, windshield wipers and other equipment. A demonstration on the Diamond by the city fire department will close the day's activity.

Tuesday will stress Safe walkers' day and the distribution of anti-jaywalking literature by Boy Scout troops. One-minute safety talks will be given frequently on street corners by a public address system, and motion pictures will be shown on the Diamond.

Industrial Safety Wednesday

Industrial safety will be the theme of Wednesday's program. Life-saving demonstrations will be given by employes of the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. and Ohio Power Co. Exhibits of life-saving equipment will be arranged by the Red Cross and state industrial commission.

The distribution of safety literature by Boy Scouts, in addition to new displays, is scheduled Thursday, Home safety day.

Children will have a chance to try their hand at traffic problems Friday, designated Child safety day. Mr. Curry said tentative arrangements call for a miniature city layout on the Y-Vodrey playlot, including streets, traffic lanes, lights and crosswalks.

The younger generation will take over the "city," some as pedestrians, others as motorists, Mr. Curry said.

The children also will see motion pictures and first aid demonstrations by Boy Scouts.

Prominent safety exponents are slated to address a rally Friday night at Patterson field, when prizes will be awarded in a safe driving contest.

The Safety week program has been given the unanimous indorsement of city council and service and fraternal organizations.

NEW CUMBERLAND

Miss Mary Francis Cline of Scottdale is visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Ballantyne.

Miss Ruth Gerwig of Buchannon is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Cochran and family.

Mrs. Samuel Carpenter and children of Buchannon are visiting Mrs. H. N. Graham.

Mrs. Louis Barton, Mrs. W. D. Swan, Mrs. Earl Hill, Mrs. Harve Chamberlain, Mrs Warren Melligan and Mrs. C. C. Herron attended an annual party Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Harry Schoppe of Steubenville. They enjoyed a chicken dinner at a restaurant in Richmond and a picnic supper at the home of Mrs. Schoppe.

The Friendly class of the Trinity Methodist church will meet this evening at the home of Mrs. Clifford Prosser. The flower committee will present the program and the social committee will be host.

Mrs. D. G. Beaumont, Miss Helene Beaumont, Mrs. N. W. Ballantyne and Mrs. Robert B. Ballantyne attended the annual visitors bridge luncheon and golf tournament at the East Liverpool country club Wednesday.

Dr. J. R. Arbogast and son, John Robert, motored to Hopemont, W. Va., Thursday morning to visit Mrs. Arbogast, who is a patient there.

Woman Beheaded As Spy

BERLIN, July 20—Marie Dieckler, first woman executed in Germany since February, 1935, was beheaded today as a spy.

FAR EAST IN WORLD NEWS AGAIN. World attention is transferred from Europe to the Far East and the South Seas as Japan's new premier, Prince Fumimaro Konoye, moved to back his military-dictated policies for a new east Asia—possibly a "march to the South Seas". Developments are shown on the map above. Britain agreed to close the Burma road, a supply route to the Chinese government at Chungking, for three months and has forbidden export of useful supplies from Hong Kong to China.

Slovaks Expect Huge Throng At Rock Springs Park Outing

Slovaks of the tri-state district will gather at Rock Springs park Sunday to celebrate the fifth Ohio Valley Slovak day. The reunion, which generally attracts more than 10,000 persons, will be celebrated with an elaborate all-day program.

Church services will be held Sunday morning at 9:30 in Toronto and from there the people will journey directly to the park. A program of addresses, folk songs and dances and athletic drills and games has been arranged.

At noon there will be a basket dinner at the pavilions and at 1 the Slovak Catholic Sokol drill teams of Bellaire, Benwood and Blaine will perform. The program includes:

Opening prayer, Rev. Fr. John Lach, Bellaire; song, "America" and "Hej Slovaci," assembly; address of welcome, Rev. Fr. Andrew R. Beres, Toronto; song, "God Bless America" and "V Siedmebreznem Kruhu Rima," in honor of the Holy father.

Address Rev. Fr. Joseph Kestik, national chaplain of Slovak Catholic Sokols, Youngstown.

Slovak folk songs and dances, Miss Irene Reher and William Klempa, Bellaire; address in English, Mayor Stephen Hamrock, Mingo Junction; closing remarks, Rev. Fr. Andrew Beres, Toronto; closing prayer, Rev. Fr. Joseph Kless, Bridgeport; song, "The Star Spangled Banner" and "Nad Tatreau Blyska", assembly

From 2:30 to 7 there will be modern and folk dancing at Virginia Gardens. The Grehevsky Slovak orchestra will play from 3 to 4. Softball game will be played between girl stars of Toronto and the Girl Ramblers of Empire. From 8:30 to 11:30 there will be dancing at Virginia Gardens.

RAIL JOB COMPLETED, CITY ACTION AWAITED

Council May Seek Bids For Removal Of Tracks

W. L. Painter, Wheeling contractor, today completed his trial removal of 1,000 feet of street car rails on Pennsylvania ave. and awaited word from city officials to find if he will be permitted to do similar work throughout the city.

Mr. Painter indicated that he will move out his equipment if the "go ahead" signal doesn't come soon.

"Because of weather conditions, I can work only about six months a year and I'll move along to another job if it looks like I'll be held up here," the contractor added.

Mr. Painter completed the trial job on an agreement whereby he receives the rails in return for removing them and repaving sections of street from which they were removed.

Councilmen have indicated the city may advertise for bids on the job with the completion of the trial work. Several said the city should receive part of the money from the sale of the rails because of the high price of scrap iron. Varying from $17 to $22 a ton, according to the market.

Mr. Painter said the rails are of varying weights. The heavier tracks would pay the cost of removal, but lighter ones might mean a loss to him because they would not bring an equal return for each lineal foot of work, he explained.

The cost of the job would vary with each type of track, each change in street surface and other conditions, the contractor pointed out.

Traffic was diverted last week as the rails were removed. Travel was expected to return to normal today after Mr. Painter completed the last stretch of repaving and removing scattered debris.

FRENCH CONSUL, WIFE ESCAPE FROM BANDITS

By The Associated Press.

TIENTSIN, July 20 — French Consul L. Colin and his wife, missing after their bullet-riddled car was found abandoned on the Tientsin-Peiping road, reached Peiping safely, it was reported here today, and said they had been attacked by 10 bandits.

They had set out for Peiping this morning and their whereabouts were unknown for several hours.

150 CITIZENS CHASE, CAPTURE BANK BANDIT

ated Press.

MARYSVILLE, Kas., July 20—A chase by 150 citizens, in which more than 20 shots were fired, ended with the wounding and capture of one of two escaped convicts in a church a few hours after they had robbed the Diller, Neb. state bank of $5,000.

The wounded bandit's companion escaped. He kidnaped two persons and commandeered two automobiles in his panic-stricken flight.

The captured man, Lowell Haenze, 27, of Sleepy Eye, Minn., told Tom Blodgett, city marshal, that he escaped with two companions from the Fort Madison, Ia., penitentiary June 22.

towns in today's raids and at one point a German plane was reported to have machine gunned civilians on a railway platform. The air ministry said that a number of houses had been destroyed and reported "some casualties" but no deaths.

Two of the raiders were reported officially shot down, bringing to 15 the number of Nazi craft destroyed in the last 24 hours.

10 Planes Shot Down

Ten German planes were shot down yesterday when 30 British fighters engaged an enemy formation of 120 aircraft over the channel and three others were downed by anti-aircraft fire. At least seven fighters were among the Nazi planes destroyed.

British planes also continued forays against German bases, executing daylight attacks yesterday on barge concentrations near Rotterdam and Boulogne and on warehouses at Le Havre. Naval bases at Emden, Willemsoord and Harlingen, as well as airdromes and oil depots further inland also were bombed, the air ministry reported.

By The Associated Press.

BEAUMONT, Tex., July 20 — Sheriff Chris P. Fox of El Paso told the Dies committee Communists had obtained recruits by promising "when the revolution comes" Mexican citizens will receive the land "taken from them" by the United States.

He mentioned Texs, New Mexico and several southwestern states as the prizes to be divided.

Numerous teachers and students of state schools were identified as Communist party members in a report of a Communist meeting produced by the sheriff.

SUGAR JOINS BATTLE TO DEFEAT WALLACE

Louisiana Delegates Swing To Willkie In 'Revolt'

ated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, July 20 — A spokesman for Louisiana's $150,000,000 sugar industry joined the state's national Democratic delegates and its "reform" governor today in a revolt against Secretary of Agriculture Wallace as the Democratic vice presidential candidate.

Charles A. Farwell, spokesman for the American Sugar Cane league and a lifelong Democrat, pinned on a "Willkie For President" button, protesting that Wallace did "all in his power to destroy" the sugar industry. He declared the "Republicans are Louisiana sugar's only hope."

The state's delegates to the national Democratic convention deserted Wallace because of the agricultural secretary's sugar quota restriction program and plow-up campaign. They cast their 20 votes for Speaker Bankhead.

One of the delegates, John Caffery of St. Mary parish, announced he will vote for Willkie. At the same time Gov. Sam Jones declared he is against Wallace "1,000 percent".

HANCOCK WILL APPEAL RULING ON BLAZE LOSS

Special To The Review.

NEW CUMBERLAND, July 20—The Hancock county board of education decided Friday night to appeal to the state supreme court a decision of Circuit Court Judge J. H. Brennan that gave it only $8,344 in its suit for $22,539 against 29 insurance companies in the loss of the fire-destroyed town school.

Judge Brennan, who heard the case in lieu of a jury, awarded the $8,344 July 11 to cover damage to boilers, radiators, valves, desks and other contents and an arbitration award to the contracts for dismantling previous to the blaze.

Only one case was tried, the Hartford Fire Insurance Co. vs. the board, the other 28 companies agreeing to abide by the decision.

CCC ENROLEE KILLED FIGHTING FOREST FIRE

By The Associated Press.

BOISE, Ida., July 20—One civilian conservation corps enrollee was burned to death and two others were burned severely as wind whipped a fire along a three-and-a-half-mile front in the foothills of the Boise mountains.

Joseph J. Galluzzo, 19, of Reading, O., was trapped on a hillside by shifting wind.

The blaze, which Oscar Mink, grazing service fire dispatcher, said started in grass and brush covered more than four miles. Approximately 350 men were rushed to the area by the forest service, grazing service and bureau of reclamation.

News Notes For Farmers . . .

State's Apple Crop Expected To Surpass 10-Year Average

64 Percent Yield Estimated For 1940; Peach Crop Due To Be Only About Half As Good As Last Season

Special To The Review.

COLUMBUS, July 20—Members of the horticulture department at Ohio State university estimate the Ohio 1940 apple crop for the state at 64 percent, as compared with 79 percent in 1939 and with 52 percent for the 10-year average.

Peaches are expected to be a 40 percent crop this year, which is only about half as good as the crop last year but is only slightly below the 10-year average.

Pears will be a little lighter than a year ago but better than average.

With each month's issue of economic information for Ohio farmers by the department of rural economies at Ohio State, the unfavorable effect of the European war upon American agriculture is repeated.

The latest involvements of additional nations in the conflict decrease the expectations for export markets for farm products, as only England and Sweden are possible present markets. England, the principal European buyer of hams and pork shoulders, bought none of either in the last month for which reports are available.

Need for curtailment of present production of farm products to a basis of domestic demand would affect cotton and tobacco farmers most severely as those crops depended to the greatest extent upon export markets. Domestic prices for wheat continued high in comparison with world prices and to domestic prices before the outbreak of the war in September.

Prospects for pasture, hay, and feed crops are good. Egg production per hen was at an all-time high in June and farm flocks were 5 percent above average. The number of young chickens on farms June 1 was lower than a year ago, but cold storage stocks of poultry continue high.

The number of hogs slaughtered in the early months of 1940 was 50 percent higher than the average for the same months in the five-year period 1934-38, and the storage supplies of pork were 13.9 percent higher than for the same months in 1939. Cattle slaughter was above the average for the 1934-38 period, and storage stocks were above that five-year average but are lower than in 1939.

The supply of hogs on farms and the amount of pork in storage is reflected in prices for hogs. The average Chicago price for hogs in the first months of 1934-38 was $8.63 a hundredweight, the price in 1939 was $6.19, and it was $5 in the first part of 1940. The corn-hog ratio in May in Ohio was 32.8 percent less favorable for profits than a year earlier.

Supplies of new potatoes available for market in June and the first half of July are likely to be larger than for the same weeks in 1939 but stocks of old potatoes were lower. The crop yet to be marketed from the intermediate and other early potato producing states is larger than a year ago.

The favorable aspects of the agricultural situation are increased payrolls and better purchasing power in cities. Ability of all United States consumers to purchase the food needed for an adequate diet would provide markets for much more food than was consumed in this nation any year in the past.

Tips For Apple Marketers

Special To The Review.

COLUMBUS, July 20—Representatives from apple-producing sections of the United States recently decided at Rochester, N. Y., that there are several methods that orchard owners can adopt to improve marketing conditions, according to Professor J. H. Gourley, of the horticulture department at Ohio State university.

One marketing avenue which is becoming wider is the promotion of sales by advertising to tell buyers of the real food values in apples, this advertising to be used seasonably rather than being an emergency measure adopted after marketing difficulties appear.

Development of new forms of apple products such as juices, canned applesauce, apple powder and milk, and others permit sales over longer periods of time than when only fresh fruit is offered.

Growers attending the meeting approved the plan of reducing surpluses and improving quality of fruit by removing old trees and those of unpopular varieties from orchards. Buyers have become accustomed to asking for a few varieties of apples and decline to pay top prices for other kinds.

Improving the pack in all producing sections was another recommended way to help sales. Those attending the meeting approved a motion to recommend that legislation be adopted requiring all apples sold which do not meet prevailing grade standards be labeled culls.

Ohio growers had considerable share in initiating the plan of removing old and undesirable apple trees from orchards, and growers from this state presented the plan early in 1940 to Washington AAA officials for inclusion in the 1941 agricultural conservation program.

Growers from West Virginia, Maryland, and Pennsylvania, voted support for the tree removal plan after a committee led by C. E. Dutton, Milford Center, had presented it to the Washington officials. Further support for the plan was afforded by the approval given it at the national meeting in Rochester.

Masaryk's Son Warns U.S. Is Next On List If Nazis Take Britain

By The Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, July 20—If England fails "in the coming blitzkrieg," the United States is "next on the program" of Nazi Germany, says Jan Masaryk, former Czech minister to London and son of his nation's founder.

This threat makes American aid to England vitally necessary, he asserted last night in a speech before nearly 1,000 Clevelanders of Czech and Slovak origin. He expressed the belief England ultimately will triumph, however.

"She may have a tough time, but she can and will repulse the Nazi attack and still come out victorious in the end," Masaryk declared.

His opinion contrasted sharply with that of Miss Theodate Johnson, Cleveland singer just returned after a year and a half in Europe.

Miss Johnson, whose soprano voice has been impaired and perhaps destroyed by several months' war work with the Red Cross in France, believes England is doomed.

While with the Red Cross, Miss Johnson caused the arrest of a spy. She had been informed a Belgian officer had been slain for passport papers and that an imposter might attempt to pass through a station outside Paris where she was working.

"I was stamping passports," she related. "A smart looking man in a brown suit suddenly appeared at the desk with the passport of the dead officer. I told him I was new on the job and asked him to wait until I settled a matter of procedure."

Police were summoned and took the spy in custody.

After spending the week-end at her parents' farm at New London, O., she plans to report to the Red Cross in Washington.

Tips On How To Keep Well

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Beware of poison ivy, because it's 'plant enemy No. 1.'

A NUMBER of weeds will cause a skin eruption on contact and this also is true of at least one domesticated plant—the primrose. The most frequent and, of course, the arch-enemy, is the family of Rhus—poison ivy, poison oak and poison sumac.

Not everyone is susceptible to these eruptions. And apparently all those who are sensitive acquire their sensitiveness by a single contact which renders them liable to severe eruption later.

Baffin Bay Eskimas do not react when given patch tests to poison ivy, which does not grow north of the St. Lawrence river. Newborn infants are not sensitive to poison ivy. But 50 percent of young adults in the vicinity of Dallas, where the plant grows abundantly react positively.

Primrose dermatitis is said to occur in 5 percent of adults. But 250 medical students with no history of exposure showed negative patch tests, while 8 per cent of Dallas florists who handle the plant reacted positively.

The Rhus family prepares its poison in the form of an oily, sticky resin or sap that runs through channels in the stems and the leaves. Neither the pollen, the bark, the plant hairs, nor the surface of the branches or uninjured leaves cause poisoning when touched.

Beware Breaking

But if a stem is broken or a leaf torn or a flower or berry broken off, a milky juice comes out in small drops and this is the poisonous sap that does the damage.

A set of small tubelike canals runs up the stems, out the stalks of the leaf, breaking up in the veins of the leaf and in the flowers and berries. Each canal is surrounded by glandular cells which secrete the poisonous sap.

Every spring as the old stalks come to life, new canals and poison glands are formed, and the new young plants have very delicate leaves, easily broken by those who are picking wildflowers.

The plants are dangerous all through the year, even in the winter when the light gray, smooth, brittle stemmed plants growing along fences may be misjudged: but the easily broken stems will exude the irritating sap just the same.

Recognition is indeed the key to the whole question of poison ivy prevention. "Leaflets three, let it be." Beware of reddish leaved plants before autumn has come.

Poison ivy grows in rich damp soil, shrub-like or climbing up trees, over rocks, or wells, or fences It is found all over the United States except on the Pacific coast where its cousin, the poison oak, supplants it Most vicious of all is the poison sumac which grows almost entirely in bogs.

Prevention and treatment of poison ivy is now done quite successfully with poison ivy extract. To prevent, it is given in two hypodermic injections at two week intervals. For treating, one injection gives marked relief in 24 to 48 hours.

NEGRO CENTER PLANS SUBMITTED FOR CITY

Cost Is Cut To $35,000 In Proposal For League

Members of a city council committee and a group from the Negro Civic league conferred Friday night when revised plans were submitted for the league's proposed swimming pool and recreational center in the East End.

H. Allen Todd, architect, presented the plans, which provide a pool and building for an estimated cost of $35,000. The league originally estimated the project at $75,000.

The league accepted the plans and will report on the proposal at the meeting next Tuesday night in its Belleek st. headquarters.

The league, meanwhile, will seek a donation of land. Financing plans will be discussed in September after the city pays off bonds when it will be determined how much funds are available within the 10-mill limitation, against which bonds might be issued.

Councilmen Clyde F. Skidmore and Homer T. Amos, Mr. Todd, and Sam Whitfield, president of the league, and William Fountaine, Paul Jones, James Lincoln and Mrs. Mayme Tynes, members were at the conference, held in the Belleek st. hall.

T.S.T. ANNUAL MEETING RETURNS ALL OFFICER

The Taylor, Smith and Taylor Co., held its annual meeting of stockholders and the board of directors today in Chester, reelecting both the officers and board for another year.

Richard B. Smith was returned as president; Ralph K. Smith, vice president; C. C. Davidson, secretary, and George H. Faulk, treasurer.

The board is: C. A. Smith Sr., C. A. Smith Jr., Richard B. Smith, Ralph K. Smith, M. J. Lynch, Mr. Faulk, Mr. Davidson and Thomas H. Fisher.

Pool Work Slated

EAST PALESTINE, July 20 — Actual work on the new $100,000 swimming pool is expected to begin the latter part of August, Mayor Walter Hunston said today. Mr. Hunston conferred with WPA officials in Akron Friday.

True Or False?

MAGAZINE fiction is getting a little gayer than it was, thank goodness. . . . Nothing lifts a street crowd's spirits like a man chasing a hat. . . . There is a point in every horse race (usually at its farthest from you) when the horses look like a charm bracelet, or like a junk-jewelry necklace. . . . It is strangely hard to throw away the betting tickets on which you have lost. . . .

The roar of the crowd at ball games is becoming a squeal, it's so soprano. . . . There are far too many potatoes in clam chowder, and that's that. . . . Women who smoke on the street are increasing in number every minute, but the odd fact still remains that only the funnier-looking ones seem to do it. . . . Once upon a time there was a war we called "the phony war," and now we're sorry. . . .

There are two conversational topics which fascinate absolutely everybody—and one of them is Unexplained Mysteries, and the other is Buried Treasure. . . . At the rate at which potato chips are consumed in cocktail bars, you wouldn't think they'd have a chance to get as stale as you sometimes find them. . . .

ONE of the terrors of travel is the business of waking up suddenly in the middle of the night in a strange hotel room or guest room and not being able to remember, for a ghastly minute, where you are. . . . There is nothing so exhausting as a restful week-end on Long Island . . .

The only sensible feminine costume for a summer motor trip is

Why do we cling to the notion that we don't want to hear about other people's troubles, when as a matter of fact there's practically nothing that intrigues us more? . . . It hasn't occurred to the picture magazines that maybe we'd all like a little less candor, and a few more rosy illusions, when it comes to our favorite celebrities.

It isn't the champagne that makes you giddy, it's the speed and steadiness with which the waiters keep refilling your glass with it when you're not looking. . . . Be ye male or female, it is a grave mistake ever to let the drunk at the next table catch your eye, even for a second. Over he comes, and stays for hours. . . .

THE proudest man seen lately in these parts was a stranger who was boasting that he'd consumed more than his quota of those "only two to a person" drinks. "The fact is, I've had five," he bragged; and so saying, and still beaming, and still holding up five fingers, he fell at our feet and passed out cold. . . .

There's a lesson in the fact that the boys who push the rolling chairs on the Atlantic boardwalk have practically no hips at all, whereas their passengers — well, never mind. . . .

The Platform

ONE good thing about these foreign policy planks in political platforms—they must leave foreigners in the dark too.

The Democrats, who virtually had worked themselves into a white rage over what they said was a weasel-worded Republican declaration on foreign policy, labored and brought forth a pledge not to participate in foreign wars, except to give material aid to peace loving peoples, and never to fight outside the American hemisphere, unless attacked.

Figure that out. It can be stretched in any direction with equal ease; it is as pliable as a piece of bubble gum in a 6-year-old's mouth. Under the circumstances, the best thing is to forget both foreign policy planks and trust to the good sense that God must have given some men in Washington.

The real cracker in the Democratic platform, when it has been searched all the way from preparedness to the District of Columbia, bears the innocent looking tag—electric power.

What it says in effect is that Democratic orators and the party's publicity bureau intend to tee off on Wendell Willkie 24 hours a day as the representative of the public utility business. What it says in fact is that the party stands for everything which Mr. Willkie opposes in the way of driving private enterprise out of the electric power field and is going to campaign on that issue.

It is as unfair to pin the power label on Mr. Willkie as it would be to pin the Wall Street label on Mr. Roosevelt, but Mr. Willkie will have to tend to that.

The other tell-tale part of the Democratic platform is the amount of attention given to farmers. It is evident the party is worried deeply about the farmer, his problems, his vote. Not only does he come first in the platform—right after preparedness and in front of the worker—but he is promised everything in the book from crackers in bed to something for his bunions. Farmers will be flattered by this special attention, which was the idea of the platform builders.

This is not to say the Democratic platform is inferior or superior to the Republican platform. It is to say, rather, that party platforms long since have ceased to compel respect and have invited criticism, instead. Their purpose is too obviously to catch votes rather than guide conduct.

It was Roosevelt I, who liked to tell what a Pullman porter said on a campaign tour. The President asked to be notified five minutes before the next stop so he could go out on the platform. "I didn't know a platform was something to go out on," said George. "I though it was something to get in on."

The Democratic party has ringingly indorsed everything it knows to be popular; on things it's not sure of it has done a fine job of mumbling.

The President And His Lady

MR. AND MRS. ROOSEVELT at long last took delegates to the Democratic convention into their confidence Thursday night.

The President and his lady must be mentioned together in this connection because they made it obvious they wish to be thought of as a team in the campaign for reelection. The country may expect to see Mrs. Roosevelt on the hustings this year in her husband's place.

What they had to say Thursday was directed principally at members of the Democratic party and must be considered on that basis. While each spoke of the desirability of suspending narrow partisanship, the fact is they were dealing first-hand with delegates to a political convention. Partisanship can't be suspended in a convention; that's where partisanship is manufactured.

From the partisan viewpoint, therefore, President Roosevelt, with the assistance of Mrs. Roosevelt, explained to members of the Democratic party how he happened to become their candidate for a third term. The essence of his explanation is that the party drafted him because he was willing to be drafted and he therefore intends to draft the party to stand 100 percent behind him for purposes of the campaign, which he will be too busy to conduct in the usual way.

It is desirable to remember in this connection that there will be no more narrow partisanship in the 1940 campaign than the defending party cares to inject into it. The Republican argument is forthright and candid.

Republicans believe that for purposes of the national emergency which Mr. Roosevelt and his party have proclaimed as the excuse for trying to perpetuate themselves in power the United States needs a change of administration.

To back up this argument the Republican party will use the Roosevelt administration's record. Its spokesmen will not let themselves be gagged by the plea there are too many things to do this year to permit a quadrennial review of the record.

His countrymen share President Roosevelt's professed desire to let nothing about the campaign interfere with the nation's welfare, it is, as he says, the only thing that matters. They believe he has the firmest intention to conduct a campaign worthy of the crisis.

Unfortunately, the traces of the boldest kind of political maneuvering to get a third term nomination are visible all over the proceedings of the Chicago convention and events leading up to the convention. The fine idealism of the President's remarks when he finally took delegates into his confidence at the close of their deliberations does not square with what already was known about the forces which propelled him into a third term nomination.

Toward Labor Peace?

Sidney Hillman's First Moves In His Defense Post May Start Drift Toward End Of A.F.L.-CIO Dispute

By MORGAN M. BEATTY

WASHINGTON, July 20—Blithe as a schoolboy on the way to the old swimmin' hole, labor's Sidney Hillman sets out to do the impossible again as a member of the national defense commission.

This time it's his job to get America's idle men and idle plants together, and, when that's done, to fill the gaps still left with youths newly trained and disciplined for the national defense job ahead. And if he's not swamped along the way, he's expected to help settle or prevent strikes.

That's a big order.

But Hillman's as confident as he was that day in 1910 when he led and won the seemingly hopeless strike in Chicago's open shop clothing industry.

He's as confident as he was in 1914, when he led his little band of 105 delegates out of the American Federation of Labor, formed the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America.

As urbane as that day in 1933, when he accepted A. F. of L's invitation to march the Amalgamated now grown strong and powerful, back into the fold. And as unconcerned as he was more recently when A. F. of L. kicked him out again.

"DON'T you feel out of your element in this white marble Federal Reserve building?" I ask.

He laughs.

"Not exactly; Julius Rosenwald once told me the Amalgamated's quarters in Chicago were as fine as his club. We have two banks you know."

Sidney Hillman's accent is definitely old world. His English is exact, grammar fair. He was born in Lithuania.

His clothes throw you off. He's dressed like a business man, maybe a bit on the smart side. Summer-cool pastel blue, white socks and shoes. With his gold rimmed glasses, neatly parted hair, you might mistake him for a Rotary club president. You'd think him not a day over 40. The record shows he's 52.

However confident Hillman may be, his job's not easy.

The man's working with a labor movement whose house is divided against itself.

He's dealing too, with army and navy men whose everyday work leaves them indifferent to labor movements, and many of whom fear—off the record—that union labor will insist on limiting apprenticeships in key industries to protect high wage scales, national defense or no national defense.

ALSO watching Hillman's step and trying to oust him in favor of a military youth administrator, is Georgia's Rep. E. E. Cox, and a bloc of other lawmakers.

They say "Sidney Hillman" and "fifth columnist" in the same breath, even though they don't actually charge he's a communist. For Hillman's on record as fighting communism, barring it from leadership in the Amalgamated. Ben Gitlow, renegade red, in his "I Confess" calls Hillman two-faced, opportunist.

Sensing labor's own struggle as his No. 1 hurdle, Hillman has already struck first—for peace!

"I have asked a joint committee of CIO, A. F. of L. and the railroad brotherhoods to advise me," he says. "They will help with the apprentice problem and other labor difficulties. They will work together. National defense comes first. They know it. I know it."

A high official in A. F. of L. who holds no brief for Hillman tells me privately that first bold stroke might snowball into a drift toward permanent peace between CIO and A. F. of L.

SITTING at Hillman's right hand as administrative assistant for labor supply is Floyd B. Reeves, of the American youth commission, and deputy for the nation's most famous champion of youth—Owen D. Young of General Electric.

That's Hillman's and the President's answer to Rep. Cox, although the congressman obviously considers it no answer at all, not even a pacifier.

"How do you propose to train the nation's youth?" is my next question. He's talking rapidly against time.

"That is first a question for the President, the cabinet, the congress to decide. Compulsory or voluntary, that is not my job. Once decided, then it will be up to the regular government agencies to train the youth—the army, the navy, the civil aeronautics administration, the office of education's vocational schools, CCC, national youth administration, and the rest.

"The national defense commission will merely co-ordinate. It will not be super-government. My particular job is to find out what the demand for labor is, to supply that demand through the regular government departments and agencies, and without duplicating effort."

It's that simple. But not that easy. And Hillman knows it.

Over The Burma Road

Making History In Marco Polo's Footsteps

ASIATIC history is being made on a 2,000-mile trade route called the Burma road. Japan has demanded that Great Britain close the road, thereby stopping shipment of supplies to the Chinese government at Chung-king and forcing it to surrender. The United States, taking exception to Britain's desire to smooth its Japanese relations at China's expense, has said closing the road would constitute unwarranted interference with world trade.

The road on which China's fate seems to depend connects the Burmese railhead at Lashio with Kunming, capital of China's Yunnan province. The latter city is linked, in turn, with Chungking, stronghold of the hard-pressed government of Gen. Chiang Kai-shek.

Thus, Chungking is connected with Rangoon, which lies at the southern end of the Burmese railroad on the Bay of Bengal.

"Although parts of Burma road had been built before 1937," reports National Geographic society in a news bulletin, "it was not until the autumn of that year that work was started on the most difficult stretch between the border of Burma and Kunming. A little more than a year after construction began on the long gaps in the route, the first trucks traversed the boldly conceived road, which cuts through sparsely inhabited regions where natural obstructions of the rugged terrain were matched by the difficulty of obtaining labor.

Most of the work was done by hand, with hoes and hammers, by thousands of men, women and children who volunteered and were conscripted for the job because of the military necessity of immediately putting through a freight route to British Asia, to take the place of Atlantic ports occupied by Japanese forces.

Such crude implements as 'steamrollers' of cylindrical boulders pulled by water buffalo were used. Flat stones provided paving over long stretches."

If it had not been for military emergency, explains the bulletin, the road probably never would have been built. It runs across a rough upland region, crossing at right angles several high mountain ranges, and follows the ancient "silk trail" over which Marco Polo traveled more than six centuries ago.

"The road makes accessible some of the most beautiful mountain country in the world, where the scene shifts from snow-topped peaks and rice bordered plateau lakes to tropical jungles of bamboo and teakwood, and forests of tall evergreens where invisible bands of howling gibbons follow the caravans at a safe distance," according to National Geographic society.

"Heavy-laden mules and oxen, beasts of burden in this region for centuries, share the road with the heavy trucks, which cut up the road so badly in wet weather that it is necessary to keep large repair crews busy throughout the rainy season. A spur from the western tip of the highway reaches to Bhamo, on the Irrawaddy river in Burma, an alternative terminus to Lashio.

It is hoped that, after the war is over, crops of sufficient quantity and value may be grown in the territories crossed by the road to warrant maintenance of the route for their export. To supplement the highway, the Chinese are believed still to be pushing construction of a railway from Kunming to Burma, following a route generally somewhat to the south of the Burma road."

News Of The Week In Review

Precedent-Shattering Democrats Shove Hitler Into The Background

By ARTHUR T. THOMAS
The Review Telegraph Editor

EUROPE'S war, apathetic this week, was forced to play "second fiddle" to a Democratic convention which shattered precedent at Chicago to nominate President Franklin Delano Roosevelt for a third term.

And Mr. Roosevelt, emphasizing that only the world crisis forced his action, accepted the "draft" of his party in a radio broadcast to the convention early Friday morning.

The President broke his long silence on the third term question Tuesday. Sen. Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, convention chairman, read the following:

"I and other close friends of the President long have known that he has no wish to be a candidate again.

"We know, too, that in no way whatsoever has he exerted any influence in the selection of delegates or upon the opinions of delegates to this convention.

"Tonight, at the specific request and authorization of the President, I am making this simple fact clear to this convention.

"The President never has had and has not today any desire or purpose to continue in the office of president, to be a candidate for that office or to be nominated by the convention for that office.

"He wishes in all earnestness and sincerity to make it clear that all of the delegates to this convention are free to vote for any candidate."

BUT the party wouldn't have it that way. No sooner were Barkley's last words absorbed than the 'draft-Roosevelt' movement began in earnest to end with the President's renomination on the first ballot.

Roosevelt received 946 votes to a collective 149 for four other candidates—James A. Farley, Vice President Garner, Sen. Millard Tydings and Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

That it was a Roosevelt "show" was made clear again in the vice presidential balloting which brought the nomination of Henry A. Wallace, 51-year-old Iowan, present secretary of agriculture.

The choice of Roosevelt's running mate was "up in the air" until the President expressed his preference for Wallace.

Immediately leaders lined up delegates behind the new deal aid and the first ballot also brought him victory.

This vote, however, threatened for awhile to produce a convention split with the President for the delegates were strongly behind Paul V. McNutt—who withdrew his name.

Many delegates then swung to William Bankhead of Alabama, speaker of the house, in an endeavor to upset Wallace. Apparently they were somewhat disgusted at having a candidate literally shoved down their throats.

One prominent Democrat—Sen. Edward R. Burke of Nebraska—did bolt the party Thursday, expressing his opposition to the third term.

THE Democratic platform, approved after a battle over the foreign policy plank, pledges not to send American troops overseas except in case of attack and to give all consistent material aid to victims of "ruthless aggressors".

The Democrats matched the Republican pledge to uphold the Monroe Doctrine and to strengthen the nation's defense with all possible speed.

They re-indorsed the administration's farm program and pledged themselves to continue or broaden virtually all its phases.

They opposed lodging control of federally-financed work relief in the states, pledged continued enforcement of the fair labor standards law, maintenance of the principles of the national labor relations act, expansion of employment training for youth and older workers and an effort to extend the social security act to "millions of persons not now protected under its terms."

Speaker Bankhead keynoted the convention with a declaration that the major objectives "of both parties must be unity and solidarity of purpose in preserving inviolate the structure of our government and the perpetual freedom of its people."

ADOLF HITLER, perhaps disturbed as American politics stole the headlines, jumped back into the limelight with his "final peace offer" to Britain.

The German reichstag heard the fuehrer cry:

"My answer, when it comes, will be terrible for millions of people, unless Britain heeds this last appeal to reason."

Hitler declared that millions of German men are "yearning to take part in the final battle against the enemy" and "a world empire then will be destroyed" if Britain continues to fight.

The fuehrer named Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, reich's marshal of Greater Germany and promoted a number of other officers of the high command.

In the reichstag he announced Col. Gen. Walther von Bauchitsch, commander-in-chief of the German army, and Col. Gen. Karl Rudolf Gerd von Rundstedt, commander-in-chief in Poland, were made field marshals general.

A French newspaper earlier had said Germany had had 600,000 men and hundreds of ships ready to hurl at Britain on the night of July 9-10 but delayed the invasion because of a disagreement between Hitler's generals.

Aerial raids continued throughout the week and sea warfare continued to take its toll of ships, merchant and war.

THE Far East remained as a danger spot as Japan chose a new premier to carry out a policy of foreign expansion and swung toward the axis.

Powerful units of the U. S. fleet were reported steaming to "patrol" British and French islands in the South Pacific—the region eyed by Japan.

Great Britain reached an agreement with Japan to shut off war supplies to China by closing the Burma road if Japan would agree to take steps for a peace with China.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull, before leaving for Havana for the Pan-American parley, declared that the U. S. will disapprove the British action.

Rounding up the news:

A MINE explosion near Johnstown, Pa., killed 63 men.

SPAIN severed diplomatic relations with Chile because an anti-Nationalist campaign in Chile has "reached intolerable limits."

Democratic Delegates Concoct Ideas At A Striporium; Harry Understands Easy To Cry Standing At A Bar

By DAMON RUNYON

CHICAGO: A fellow overeats and undersleeps at a national convention. After all these years you would think we would know better. But look. Swiss cheese on rye and big round slices of Bermuda onion with mustard and four cups of coffee at Harry Russell's at 3 o'clock.

Reckon we ought to have the old bean examined. That is dietetic hari-kari. Should have laid off the mustard. Bad dreams. Dreamed the Democrats had nominated Rose LaRose, the strip dancer, for president. Now where did we get that association of ideas? Oh yes! Rose was one of a flock of strip dancers we viewed in a place on State st. before we went against the mustard. A man has to go everywhere to get political news these days.

This place where we saw Rose (Minsky's, class of '38) is a sort of cafe with a show on an elevated platform. The management operates the show on the theory that if one strip dancer makes good business, a covey of 'em makes better business. The joint was crowded. Democratic delegates present were discussing the platform.

The stripping began at about 11 o'clock and continued from then on. "But we keep it clean," the master of ceremonies assured us. "That is our motto—Keep it clean." A Democratic delegate nodded his head and said: "That is a fine idea. I think I will mention it to the boys who are writing our platform. 'Keep it clean.' That is really fine."

ROSE LAROSE seemed to be the star. Some of the delegates thought it would be an excellent scheme for the convention managers to hire her to open the daily meetings at the Chicago stadium with her number. They argued that Democracy has simply got to find something to stand off Willkie.

We left the place rather early, not because we were bored by Rose LaRose's performance, but because our seat was so close to the platform we were in constant fear that we might get an eyelash caught in a zipper.

We understand there are a number of these striporiums in the Loop district which run at all hours and are fairly well patronized. We thought it might be due to some peculiar appeal in this type of entertainment to Chicagoans, but Nate Lewis, the prize-fight manager, a veteran of the Loop, says no.

He says they are nice places in which to catch a few winks of sleep. You can just imagine how blase these Chicagoans are when they can slumber through garment-moulting by beautiful damosels.

HARRY RUSSELL'S is a bar and restaurant in the Loop and Harry himself is a fellow who used to be an entertainer in the Chicago drums of another era. He sang reasonably sweet songs. Mike Lyman, Abe's brother, now a rich restaurant owner out in Los Angeles, was also warbling around the Loop deadfalls in those days. Harry opened his present establishment in an old Child's, and for a spell was facing increased depression.

Then he remembered the charm of music and installed singers on a stage in the center of a circular bar. He ought to knock out $100,000 a year for himself now, which will be handy money for Harry in playing and laying the horse races. He is an old time plunger, though he would rather let the other guy try to guess 'em. He won a gob in Florida last winter.

His place is a poor man's Stork club. He keeps his singers going constantly. The instant one stops, another starts. Sometimes three or four are all going at once. Naturally the din is terrific. Harry puts all his bartenders through an auricular examination before they go on duty.

Their hearing has to be so keen they can hear a pin drop at 10 paces. This is to guard against the possibility that 'mid the uproar they might fail to hear a customer remark: "Let's have another."

WE do not claim a musical ear, but we enjoyed the disturbance in Harry's. The circular bar with the singers in the center has its advantage. It enables a couple of hundred customers to cry at the same time against the bar when a singer is giving off "Melancholy Baby".

Everybody knows a man cries much better standing against a bar than sitting at a table.

Bounce

By Truman Twill

RUBBER balls and human beings have bounce. It is a quality which disappears with age in both cases.

A ball bounces when thrown against a firm surface. With human beings the operation is more complicated.

Many ways have been devised to test their resilience and elasticity. One of them, a political convention, was tried out this week.

Object of the convention—any convention—is to determine whether ordinary mortals can eat too much, drink too much, yell too much, jump around too much, not sleep enough and come back home on their own feet.

Another bounce test for humans is to challenge them to take violent exercise without sagging. This is feasible because they are the only animals on earth willing to tire themselves out for fun.

After the exercise, it is common for them to challenge nature further by taking a good hot bath, then ending up with a dash of ice water. If the victim screams he is considered to have retained his bounce and can stay in the game.

Commonest bounce test is the fixed work day. The object in this case is to see how long the subject can keep bouncing for a wage, day in and day out, week in and week out, year in and year out without going stale. It is patterned after fatigue tests devised by the U. S. bureau of standards where the best is none too good.

Opposite from the work bounce is the play bounce, in which vacationing victims are set to jumping up and down and back and forth aimlessly to see how long they can keep it up before saying, "Shucks, it would be easier to go back to work than do this."

There are other forms of the bounce test. One is constant reading about politics and the miseries of the world to determine how long it will be until each new item of information produces nothing but an enervated "Yaah".

There also are persons who play slot machines to test their powers of recovery, but they are a study in themselves.

Ohio Anecdotes

IT WAS a conscience-stricken congregation that heard the first sermon of Rev. John Wright, a Presbyterian missionary from Pittsburgh, who arrived in the frontier village of Newark on a summer Saturday of 1803 and put up a tavern on the square.

Though there were only five or six log cabins in the village, the town was filled with persons attending a horse race. Not satisfied with the race, they decided to run it again Sunday. That night a rowdy crowd awakened Mr. Wright and insisted that he drink with them or be ducked. He fled to the house of the village's lone Presbyterian family and slept on the floor. Learning Mr. Wright's identity, the horse-racers apologized and attended his rousing sermon on the sanctity of the Sabbath.

Russia is said to be the first country where wood blocks were used for paving roads. The first blocks consisted of short uniform lengths, round in shape as cut from the trunks.

Today And Tomorrow

Both Candidates Are Advised To Steer Clear Of Politicians And Keep Tab On Things Themselves

By WALTER LIPPMANN

CHICAGO, July 20—In both party conventions this year it has been difficult until the very end to perceive how much the course of events in the outer world was determining the final result of the proceedings. Until Thursday at Philadelphia and until Thursday at Chicago an observer might have thought that the moods and maneuvers of factions and of politicians were still as significant as they have been in so many other political conventions.

In fact, both conventions were dominated by the historic events which are shaking the world and both conventions were driven by these events to doing what ordinarily would have been regarded as politically impossible.

Under ordinary rules of politics it was inconceivable that the Republican party would nominate for president a candidate who had just joined the party and never had participated in party affairs.

Such a thing never has happened before in the history of American party politics. It would not have happened this year if total war had not begun a month before the convention and if Hitler had not conquered France before the party met in Philadelphia.

Wendell Willkie was nominated because all the other Republican candidates had misjudged the course of events, because he alone was aware of them and he alone seemed ready to deal with them.

WHEN the convention met at Philadelphia, the choice was between the nomination of Willkie and the disintegration of the Republican party under the impact of events. Mr. Willkie was chosen because he had to be.

Unless there were developments which were not visible to me here in Chicago, there is a less formidable opposition within the party to Roosevelt's third nomination than there was to his second.

The reason is evident. Just as the Republicans had only Willkie, so the Democrats had only Roosevelt. There was no other Democrat available who was prepared for the situation in which the country finds itself.

We should be deceiving ourselves, I believe, and misrepresenting the facts if we sought to explain either nomination by describing the political strategy and the showmanship which were employed in achieving it. That would be partisan blindness.

Both Mr. Willkie and Mr. Roosevelt were nominated because they were the men who most obviously and clearly represented the profound sense of the American people that they are facing one of the very greatest crisis in their history. All other considerations became unimportant, and that is why both conventions did such inconceivable and impossible things.

WHAT has happened in these conventions is, I believe, a clue to what is going to happen during the campaign. Each candidate will find himself continually beset; the politicians will advise him more or less accurely what the voters are thinking and feeling at the moment; his own understanding will tell him that events will in fact determine what the nation is going to think and feel.

If he follows the advice of the politicians and seeks immediate applause, he will make the mistake that Mr. Dewey made. He will find himself confounded by events.

If he follows his understanding, taking care not to let the excitement of campaigning and crowds and conferences and receptions cut him off from knowledge of what is going on, he will gain in strength as events vindicate him.

Mr. Roosevelt made it plain in his address to the convention that he intends to conduct his campaign by keeping as close as he can to the events as they unfold. That is one of the most astute political decisions of his whole career.

For the people will go to the man who seems most clearly to have foreseen what happens. They will regard that as a test of his capacity to deal with what is going to happen.

MR. WILLKIE will do well to realize this right away and to take measures at once to protect himself against becoming so engulfed in the mere procedure of campaigning that he loses touch with the immense realities which will determine the result.

The politicians of both parties would like to fight the campaign of 1936 over again. That was as evident in Chicago as it was in Philadelphia. But 1940 is as far removed from 1936 as Hitler is from Queen Victoria.

The strength of Willkie and Roosevelt is that they know this. The basic fact about public sentiment is that the people know this. But by and large the professional politicians do not know it, or knowing it, they are unable to disentangle themselves from the routine of politics.

And that is why when the politicians had played their part as long as they could play it, both conventions accepted leadership and left to their chosen leaders the task of making policy for the future.

Actual Shootin' Yarns Shatter Legends

Reviewed By John Selby

"GUNS OF THE FRONTIER," by William MacLeod Raine.

SOME of the western fans might be shocked to know that one or two writers of bang-bang westerns are not broad-chested, booted males, but women.

William MacLeod Raine is definitely out of that class; when he writes western history he is writing from minute personal observation and research; when he writes shoot-'em-ups, his backgrounds are authentic and the writing as good as that market will stand. Today Mr. Raine is publishing some colloquial history of wide interest.

In fact, his "Guns of the Frontier" (even when it discusses familiar bad men and long idolized heroes) is "different," for he is not retelling accepted legends, but providing as accurate fact as the indefinite records of the West when it was wild afford.

Many Versions Re-Told

Men accustomed to history written from accurate records are often disconcerted at the 15 or 20 versions of the same story they encounter on the Great Plains, when some of the events thus disagreed upon are within the memory of a few still living.

Thus Mr. Raine's research has led him to value very differently that most famous of western gunmen, Wild Bill Hickock. Mr. Raine gets round to Hickock by way of Tom Smith, who lasted six months as marshal of wide-open Abilene, faced down the most desperate men and disarmed them without carrying a gun himself, and was finally murdered by a hoe man, of all things.

A hose man was a farmer in the Kansas of that day, and the natural enemy of the drovers who brought their bawling herds up from Texas to the railhead.

Hickock was, in Mr. Raine's version, not only a liar but a coward when compared with Smith, his predecessor as marshal of Abilene. Whereas Smith never shot anybody, Hickock fired first and ascertained fact second, if ever.

Killed Own Deputy

Once he even murdered his own deputy because that unlucky man happened by while his superior was dispatching a suspect. Hickock slept with gun in reach and the floor covered with crumpled newspapers; one of his most heroic exploits (in his version) turns out a cold-blooded and useless murder. This was the McCanles affair in Nebraska.

Such impartiality and such healthy skepticism make "Guns of the Frontier" something quite new in its field. The stories of early-day El Paso, Colorado and Nevada are particularly worthy.

RED CROSS SPEEDS UP RELIEF IN WAR AREAS

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 20 — Besieged hourly with fresh war relief appeals, the American Red Cross concentrated today on furnishing aid where it is needed most urgently in Europe.

The great proportions of the task undertaken was evidenced, officials said, by the fact that the American Red Cross has poured out $7,384,978 in cash and relief supplies to war-smitten areas since hostilities started almost 11 months ago.

The amount spent to date is more than a third of the contributions received in the emergency relief drive which opened May 10. The drive returns are now slightly under $20,000,000.

The main beneficiaries of present Red Cross efforts, spokesmen said, are refugees and wounded soldiers in England; those sections of France unoccupied by Germany and some Nazi-conquered territory.

MASONS SLATE PICNIC FRIDAY IN COLUMBIANA

Masons and their families from East Liverpool have been invited to attend a basket picnic in pavilion 4 at Firestone park, Columbiana, Friday, July 26, under the auspices of the East Liverpool Masonic Social club.

The hours will be from 2 to 11 p. m. Transportation will be provided for those without automobiles, by calling John Hill, chairman.

The activities will consist of races and contests for men, women and children, with prizes. There will be music and special prizes also. Free coffee, lemonade and ice cream will be furnished by the refreshment committee.

'POISON IVY' PRISONER FINDS POLICE HELPFUL

The police department delved into the realms of alchemy today and came up with a surefire poison ivy antidote that was administered to a man serving 10 days on an intoxication charge.

Patrolman Chester C. Smith, acting desk sergeant, whipped up a mixture of water and potassium permanganate in an abandoned glass jar that somebody found in the police office. He passed the bright purple mixture in to the prisoner, Arthur Franklin, with directions to stir well before using and apply externally.

Yesterday in municipal court, Judge Frank Grosshans pronounced the sentence that sent Franklin to jail, and today furnished the 10 cents that bought the poison ivy antidote from a nearby drug store.

Home Costs Reported

LISBON, July 20—The board of the Fairmount children's home at Alliance, jointly sponsored by Columbiana and Stark counties, reported to the county commissioners today that June expenses totaled $83,700.26 for the maintenance of 101 Columbiana county children and 268 from Stark. The county's share, based on a ratio of 34 percent to Stark's 66, is $3,348.36 for last month.

Porch Furniture Survive Stains Of Cold Drinks

By ALICE DENHOFF
King Features Syndicate Writer

IT's cold drink time, which means that many a hostess is torn between the happiness of hospitality and the fear that her furniture is going to be a mass of rings, marks, dents and scratches.

The best thing to do is to use as much summer furniture as possible, tables with those plate glass tops that won't look any worse if a whole tray of drinks splashes all over them.

Rub Out Gray Spots

The filmy gray spot which is an aftermath of a water ring often yields to a few rubs of a cloth on which a drop or two of household ammonia has been poured. After this, rub with a clean cloth and then polish with oil and a soft cloth, using plenty of elbow grease. To clean water spots on waxed floors, rub in circles with a flannel cloth and turpentine, following with a clean polishing cloth.

Alcohol spots require prompt attention, a quick rubbing with a clean cloth. Rub with the fingers rather than waste time looking for a cloth. It will help return the finish.

Get after the ring or spot as soon as possible with lemon oil, linseed or prepared oil, plus plenty of vigor. Some housewives swear by rottenstone and linseed oil rubbed on in circles, using plenty of linseed oil to lubricate the rottenstone.

The rottenstone must float in the oil or it will scratch. Use your regular furniture polish to restore the luster. Most shops that go in for very fine furniture have special waxes and polishes for renewing surface finishes.

Often a good going over with furniture polish will cover up scratches because the stuff contains dye or stain enough to darken wood that has been bared by a scratch.

Retouching Of Mahogany

Scratches in mahogany may be retouched with a little permanganate of potash. A bruise in the wood, if it is not too deep, will often yield to a good oiling and rubbing.

If the dent is deeper than a superficial bruise, moisten soft thin blotting paper in hot water and gently apply heat by means of a hot iron. The moisture and heat swells the wood and the dented part rises.

This, of course, is not possible with a veneer, for this is only a thin wood surface finish fastened to a wood backing.

If there is no furniture polish at hand, get four ounces of beeswax and melt over water. When dissolved, remove from fire and stir in a pint of turpentine. Stir until the mixture is a thick batter and put up in a jar to be used as needed. The hand is the best wax rubber as its warmth softens the wax. Finish by rubbing with soft flannel.

THOUSANDS TO ATTEND 3RD RUNNING OF DERBY

By The Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, July 20—Drawn on by a big race and perfect weather, thousands of turf patrons trooped toward Hollywood park today for the third running of the $25,000 added Hollywood derby.

Twelve candidates were slated to parade to the post.

Leading the procession was the favored color bearer of Charles S. Howard of San Francisco, Mioland. Rated just behind in public appeal were Harry C. Hill's California-bred, Sweepida, John Hay Whitney's Woof Woof, W. B. Simpson's Weig Anchor and Neil S. McCarthy's Big Ben.

The War Today:

Hitler's Speech Leaves Situation Where It Was; It Looks, However, As If He Really Desires Peace

DEWITT MACKENZIE

NEW YORK, July 20—Hitler's peace speech leaves the situation just where it was, unless the British government sues for terms — something which Premier Churchill less than a week ago declared never would happen.

This being the case Europe must endure a conflict which, as Hitler says, "can end only with the complete annihilation of one or the other of the two adversaries."

Well, that's what this war started out to be—a fight to a finish between Germany and England—and that's likely to be the way it winds up.

The Nazi chieftain says he knows that this "will bring upon the people unending suffering and misery" but that he has relieved his conscience towards the things that then will come that is, if this last appeal to reason is unheeded by England."

Intended As Tonic

The reichstag speech also was intended as a tonic for the German people. Win or lose, I think they have hard times ahead of them.

But besides this, I can't escape the feeling that Hitler would give much if he could obtain peace at this time. Of course, it would be on his terms, but he could afford to make heavy concessions to Britain if he could keep his present conquests without having to fight further to hold them.

He says he is going to win and he certainly has a right to a great degree of confidence. The odds perhaps are in his favor.

In undertaking to invade England (if he does) he will be essaying a feat which would appall the average military leader. He is, as Prime Minister Churchill has said, coming up against a much bigger proposition than he heretofore has encountered on the battlefield. Some neutral observers concede Britain a fighting chance to win.

Herr Hitler knows that if he doesn't defeat his enemy quickly and the war is drawn out Germany stands a big chance to lose because of severance from essential supplies by the British blockade.

Little Item Holds Interest

I was much struck this morning by a little item from Washington. An economic report received from Germany by the commerce department says potatoes, grain and other commodities are being grown on military airports, especially in corners and sides which can be spared from war purposes.

Of course, this doesn't mean that Germany is hungry already. It is an exhibition of German efficiency. Still, such extreme measures bespeak a fear of the future. Over Germany, as well as the rest of the continent, hangs the threat of the hunger which overtook the reich in the World war and forced its surrender.

All in all, there is ample reason why Herr Hitler should be happy if England asked for peace now. It was worth while to invite Churchill to make terms, even if the chances of his acceptance were small.

There was one passage in Hitler's address which interested me greatly. That was where he said:

"As for myself, I am moved deeply, realizing that providence has called on me to restore my people their freedom and honor."

We here have a theme which has persisted in the fuehrer's pronouncements for many years—the idea that he has been ordained divinely to carry out his program. Many of his followers attribute divine qualities to Hitler himself and have cultivated the thought among the German people that he is a messiah.

STATE

The romance, beauty and traditions of the proud South, climaxed by the most spectacular steeplechase in America, the Maryland Hunt cup race, are highlights of Darryl F. Zanuck's technicolor production of "Maryland," new 20th Century-Fox picture which started at the State theater today.

The list of prominent players in "Maryland", which recalls the popular film, "Kentucky", is headed by Walter Brennan, the academy award-winning star of "Kentucky".

The human, lovable role of the horse trainer in "Maryland" has been called another made-to-order part for him.

Fay Bainter, who won an academy award for her sterling work in "Jezebel," has another important role.

Brenda Joyce and John Payne, as headstrong young lovers, torn by fierce family pride, share the romantic lead. Others prominently featured are Charlie Ruggles, Hattie McDaniel and Marjorie Weaver.

Ethel Hill and Jack Andrews wrote an original screen play for "Maryland". Gene Markey was associate producer.

SUNDAY SERVICES IN EAST LIVERPOOL DISTRICT CHURCHES

HISTORIC CHURCH CAMP WILL OPEN FOR 103RD TERM

Meeting To Open Aug. 1 For 10 Days At Hollow Rock With 1,000 Expected

The 103rd annual campmeeting at historic Hollow Rock campmeeting grounds in Jefferson county, three miles southwest of Yellow Creek, will be held Aug. 1-11.

This campmeeting ground is claimed to be the oldest in the world, and was established a few years before 1839 when the pottery industry had its beginning in East Liverpool. The grounds consist of 22 acres of shaded land in one of eastern Ohio's most picturesque valleys.

Attendance Of 1,000 Seen

Approximately 1,000 persons are expected to attend the 10-day series of meetings opening Thursday night, Aug. 1. This crowd will be swelled to perhaps 5,000 persons over the two week-ends, leaders claim.

Most of the campers will be housed in the 100 or more cottages on the grounds. The three large dormitories can accommodate about 250 others. A cafeteria and a grocery store are maintained on the grounds. All services are held in the frame tabernacle, which is located centrally among the cottages.

The corps of visiting workers this year is headed by Dr. Henry Clay Morrison, preacher, evangelist, editor and college president of Louisville, Ky., who will be at the campmeeting only on Monday and Tuesday, Aug. 5 and 6.

Dr. Morrison was to have attended the entire campaign but because of a conflict in his engagements he will here but two days. He conducted services at Hollow Rock about 35 years ago.

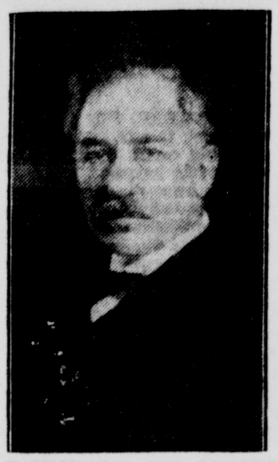
Other workers will include Dr. John L. Brasher, prominent southern evangelist of Georgia, who assisted at Hollow Rock in previous campaigns.

Rev. Zike Will Assist

Rev. C. E. Zike of Wadsworth is another worker. He is connected with the Wesleyan Methodist church and is said to be an interesting and convincing preacher.

Dr. Warren M. McIntyre of Wilmore, Ky., who assisted the last year's campaign will return for this year's meeting. The singing will be directed by Prof. N. B. Vandall of Akron, widely-known evangelistic singer.

Miss Sylvia M. Pipkin of Bellefontaine, young people's worker, also is returning to assist in the youth meetings. Mrs. Edith Mackey Smith of West Liberty, Pa., will be the leader of the work among older boys and girls. Mrs. Wesley A. Miller of East Liverpool will direct the children's services. The ring meetings will be conducted by Mrs. Tillie McNutt Albright of Carrollton, widow of the late Dick Albright, pottery executive.



EVANGELISTS FOR CAMPERS. Dr. John L. Brasher, at left, of Georgia, and Dr. Warren C. McIntyre of Wilmore, Ky., are two of the prominent revivalists who will take part in the services at historic Hollow Rock campmeeting grounds.

Friday, Aug. 9, will be missionary day. The camp supports the work of Robert Chung in Korea, the National Holiness Missionary society and the Oriental Missionary society's work.

Young people attending without housing facilities may secure accommodations on the third floor of the Cooper and Dennis dormitories. The girls will be under the supervision of Mrs. L. Chester Lewis of Bellaire, and the boys under Rev. Taylor Carson, superintendent of dormitories.

Events On Daily Program

The daily program follows:

6 a. m., rousing bell; 6:15, morning prayer in tabernacle; 7 breakfast; 9 people's meeting in tabernacle; 9 boys' and girls' meeting in upper hall; 10:15 school of prophets in tabernacle; 12 noon, dinner; 1 p. m., silent prayer bell; 1:30, cottage and dormitory prayer meetings; 2:30, preaching in the tabernacle; 5, supper; 6, "Groaner's hill" prayer meeting; 6, ring meeting; 7:30, preaching in tabernacle; 10:30, silent bell.

CHURCH NOTES

The annual picnic of the congregation and Sunday school of St. John's Lutheran church will be held Wednesday afternoon and night at Thompson park.

W. P. Sloan of East Liverpool will preach in the Chester Church of the Nazarene Sunday at 10:45 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. The church has been without a pastor since the resignation of Rev. Howard Smith about two weeks ago.

An adjourned meeting of the congregation of the Emmanuel Presbyterian church will be held at the conclusion of the 11 a. m. worship service Sunday.

Norman Parr of Wellsville, seminary student, will preach Sunday at 11 a. m. in the First Methodist church of Wellsville. His subject will be "Man's Greatest Battle."

Evangelist Oliver Johnson of Marietta will conduct a two-week revival campaign in the Chester Church of Christ at Louisiana ave. and Third sts., beginning Sunday. Services will be held every night at 7:30, except Saturday, up to and including Aug. 4.

Rev. John M. Chandler, retired Methodist Episcopal church minister of East Liverpool, will preach Sunday at 11 a. m. in the Newell Presbyterian church, substituting for Rev. George W. Kiehl, who is on his vacation. His sermon topic will be "Spiritual Integrity."

A homecoming picnic will be held Saturday, Aug. 10, at the Riley Methodist church near Salineville, of which Rev. George E. Sweeney is pastor. Invitations have been extended to former members and friends of the church.

The Walker Sisters trio of vocalists of New Castle, Pa., will assist in all services Sunday in the Church of the Nazarene at Newell.

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Lacey, Cleveland gospel musicians, presented a program Friday night before a packed audience in the Church of the Nazarene. Pleased with the program, the church obtained them for another appearance Sunday morning at the Sabbath school, 9:30 to 10. They will return to the city for a two-week revival campaign in October.

Consider and hear me, O Lord, my God.—Psalm 13:3.

SCHEDULES ARRANGED FOR SUMMER SERIES

Salineville And Oak Ridge Pastor To Preside

Special To The Review.

SALINEVILLE, July 20 — The schedule for summer services at the Salineville and Oak Ridge Presbyterian churches has been arranged by Rev. George Chalmers Browne, the pastor. The set up will continue until October.

By the new arrangement, the Sunday services at the Oak Ridge church will start at 9:30 a. m., with Sunday school classes following. In the Salineville church Sunday school will meet at 10 a. m. while the morning worship service will be held at 11. Rev. Browne will preach in both churches at the morning service but will be unable to attend the Sunday school in either church.

The mid-week service of the Oak Ridge congregation will be held Wednesday at 8:15 p. m. in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sefart. In Salineville, the service will be held Thursday at 7:30 p. m. in the church. The service in Salineville next week will be preparatory for the celebration of the Lord's supper on July 28. Communion will be celebrated in the Oak Ridge church tomorrow morning.

GOSPEL SOUND TRUCK WILL ASSIST REVIVALS

A gospel sound truck will be used by Rev. S. W. Joiner and wife, who are conducting a series of revival services in the Church of God on West Ninth st.

It will appear on the streets here daily presenting hymns and gospel songs. The truck also will be used for a service each evening at 6 p. m. at Columbian park, consisting of music and speaking by means of the public address system.

The services at the Church of God will continue for two weeks. Rev. Joiner, a returned missionary from Africa, will preach every night except Saturday. Services Sunday will be held at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. in the church, and at 6 p. m. at Columbian park.

REPORTS ON WOOSTER SESSIONS TO BE GIVEN

Special To The Review.

MIDLAND, July 20—Nine young people who attended the youth conference at Wooster college July 8-15, will report on their impressions of the meetings Sunday at 10:30 a. m. in the Presbyterian church.

This program will take the place of the usual Sunday morning preaching service. Those taking part in the service will include Olen Gibson, Richard Arndt, Kirby Hunter, Maxine Reed, Mary Herron, Juanita Withem, Laura Bell Wright, Margaret McKinley and Delores Chaffin.

LIEUT. RUBY COCKER
Assigned as assistant of citadel.

LIEUT. RUBY COCKER, formerly of Cleveland, has been assigned as assistant to Adjt. and Mrs. Jack Webster of the local Salvation Army corps.

Lieut. Cocker graduated from the Salvation Army training college in New York in June, this being her first station as a probationary lieutenant. She has been a soldier in the Salvation Army movement in Cleveland since she was a child.

Miss Cocker succeeds Lieut. Nametta Taylor, who was transferred to the West Side corps in Cleveland in January.

SUPPLIES WILL SERVE FOR CHESTER SERIES

Presbyterians Slate Guest Pastors For 5 Sundays

Supply ministers will occupy the pulpit of the Chester Presbyterian church for five consecutive Sundays beginning July 28 during which time Rev. C. T. Weimer, the pastor, will be absent.

Rev. Weimer will be an instructor at the Bethany Young People's conference the first Sunday, and he will be on his vacation the other four Sundays. Except for July 28, when the congregation will participate in a union service, the Sunday services will be confined to morning worship.

Dr. George Coleman of Geneva college at Beaver Falls will be the speaker July 28. Dr. Lyman Lemon, pastor of the Warwood Presbyterian church, will conduct the service on Aug. 4 and Aug. 25.

Dr. R. H. Martin of Pittsburgh, president of the National Reform association and a lecturer at the Winona Lake Chautauqua assembly, will be the guest preacher Aug. 11. Dr. J. S. Martin of Beaver Falls, executive secretary of Geneva college, will fill the pulpit Aug. 18.

Rev. Weimer will resume charge Sept. 1.

CHURCH TO DISCUSS MINISTER CANDIDATE

Presbyterians At Wellsville May Extend Call Sunday

The congregation of the First Presbyterian church of Wellsville may extend a call to a new minister at a business meeting following the 11 a. m. worship service Sunday.

Members of the church are giving consideration to three candidates, who recently delivered trial sermons. The pulpit has been vacant since the resignation of Rev. I. K. Teal late in January. Rev. E. C. Irwin, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, is the moderator pending installation of a regular minister.

Rev. H. W. Lowry of Poland and pastor of the local church for about 15 years, will preach at the worship service. Rev. Lowry, who left here about 40 years ago, is retired from the ministry.

The union Sunday night service also will be held in this church at 7:30. The speaker will be Rev. R. W. Mansfield of New Concord, synodical superintendent of the United Presbyterian church. Music will be furnished by the host church. Members of the First and Central Methodist, Second Presbyterian, First United Presbyterian and First Christian churches will participate.

CHALK ARTIST TO HOLD CUMBERLAND SERVICE

NEW CUMBERLAND, July 20—Rev. C. Wesley Newland, Grand Rapids, Mich., chalk artist, will open a series of revival meetings Sunday in the local Free Methodist church.

Rev. Newland will be accompanied by a sound car which will parade the streets each afternoon and night. Services will be conducted every night until Aug. 4. Rev. Newland assisted in the Free Methodist campmeetings which closed in East Liverpool last Sunday.

The new church, recently occupied by the congregation, will be dedicated on the closing day of the revival campaign. Rev. H. W. Armstrong of East Liverpool, district elder, and Rev. C. L. Page of Wellsville, former district elder, will take part.

BETHANY CONFERENCE TO DRAW AT CHESTER

The Chester Presbyterian church will be represented by a group of its members at the Bethany Young People's conference which opens Monday at Bethany college.

Those from Chester at the affair will be Hilda Oyster, Dorothy Jordan, Mary Louise Bryan and Frank Dewell. Rev. C. T. Weimer, pastor of the Chester church, is one of the conference leaders.

Presbyterian young people from various parts of West Virginia will attend.

Evangelist And Family Arrive

EVANGELIST THOMAS W. BUTTERFIELD and family of McConnelsville arrived in East Liverpool Friday to make their home.

Mr. Butterfield will become part-time pastor of the Bradshaw ave. Church of Christ. He and his family will occupy a new home which has been erected adjoining the church at 740 Bradshaw ave. He is the father of two daughters, both high school students.

Evangelist Butterfield has conducted services numerous times in East Liverpool. He will succed A. E. Wickham, who has been the part-time minister of the local church for about four years.

Beginning in 1941, Evangelist Butterfield will devote his full time to the local church. He is under contract for numerous evangelistic campaigns during the remainder of the year. He will preach in the local church Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

Hunger For Righteousness

"Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness; for they shall be filled."—Matt. 5:6.

THERE is a zeal in the church for increasingg numbers, a passion for bigness, while what is needed more than an influx of new members has been and is the revitalizing dynamic power of the Holy Spirit within the present membership.

There is little concern for the physical development of the normal boy or girl, and there need be none for the church where there is a wholesome passion for God, with its sequent issue of love for mankind and an all right conduct in a social world.

Many social and economic conditions exist in our world that are profoundly disturbing. However, it is still true that our American people are inherently religious. This is true also of other nationals.

The life stream of Christian faith and practice in our world is not so infected that there is immediate danger of decease. Attention, however, is urgent. There is too great a temperature in our world (cooperate immorality) for comfort.

Our safety and security lies in our love and loyalty to God.

"Thou shalt love the Lord thy God—and thy neighbor as thyself."

—G. E. Letchworth, Pastor, Methodist Church, Newell.

CHURCH SESSION GROUP DUE BACK

12 Of Wellsville Church To Return Home Sunday

Twelve members of the Wellsville Christian church will return Sunday from religious conferences which have been in session at Hiram college at Hiram, O., and Bethany college at Bethany, W. Va.

Those at the older conference at Hiram this week are Anna Pride Fultz, Darrell Fultz, Wilma Wilson, Mary Lou Petty, Marjorie McCown, Kenneth Frontz, Sara Griffith, Catherine Webster and Margaret Cronin. Darrell Fultz, Sara Griffith and Wilma Wilson are among the 25 to be graduated from the conference Sunday afternoon, having completed four years at these meetings.

The party will return to Wellsville in autos driven by Mrs. Beuna Vista Waugh, John H. Grafton, Charles D. Grafton and Harry L. Frontz. The drivers will take with them to Hiram Janice Grafton, David Bolon and Junior Griffiths, who will attend a conference for younger children next week.

Also returning to Wellsville Sunday will be Mrs. Charles D. Grafton, Mrs. Charles J. Robb and Mrs. Wilbur Griffiths, who have been attending the adult conferences at Bethany this week. They are being returned by Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Payne.

A large delegation of local church members will go to Hiram on Sunday, July 28, to attend the Northern Ohio Fellowship of the Disciples of Christ. They will bring back the three children.

The local church also will send a large delegation to the Young Adult conference at Camp Wildwood Sept. 13-15. This delegation will be headed by William Griffiths, who has graduated from the Hiram conference.

AUTO TRADE LETDOWN HITS STEEL INDUSTRY

By The Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, July 20 — Daily Metal Trade say some slackening has been noted in buying of finished steel products, largely reflecting suspensions or declining operations at automotive plants.

"It is not viewed with any alarm," the trade publication declared today, "since it reflects a seasonal letdown which shortly will give way to new purchasing by automotive interests. Meanwhile, considerable steel is being booked for defense purposes and export demand, chiefly British, is being entertained."

100 AT ANNUAL OUTING OF DISTRICT'S Y.P.C.U.

About 100 persons attended the annual picnic of the Young People's Christian Union of the Steubenville Presbytery Friday afternoon and night at Thompson park.

Members of the society from the Second United Presbyterian church of East Liverpool were hosts. The afternoon was spent in sports, contests and swimming.

At a business session, plans were outlined for the national convention at Estes Park, Colo., in August. The Steubenville Presbytery will be represented at this meeting by two delegates, Rev. Hubert Henderson, pastor of the Glenmoor United Presbyterian church, and wife were introduced. Rev. Henderson spoke briefly. Dinner was served in the main dining pavilion at 6.

NEW TECHNIQUE USED BY NAZIS IN ATTACKS

By The Associated Press.

LONDON, July 20 — Watchers at a town in southeast England which was bombed yesterday said they had observed a new technique of the Germans in gaining their objective before they could be intercepted.

A lone enemy plane was observed at a great height flying seawards, they said, leaving a thin, miles-long trail of white smoke. Almost immediately the raiders appeared, apparently using the smoke as a guide.

Writer, Industrialist Dies

CLEVELAND, July 20—John P. Brophy, 83, who had a dual career in industrial management and journalism, is dead. While serving as general manager of the Cleveland Automatic Machine Co., Brophy conducted a column for the Cleveland Plain Dealer and contributed to several magazines. His writings were commentative, or dealt with travel and homely philosophy.

THIS MORNING AT 11 O'CLOCK Miss Theda Ileene McCoy of Drury lane, daughter of Mr. Saul McCoy of Cambridge, O., became the bride of Mr. Rudolph Reda, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Reda of Beaver Falls. The ceremony took place in the First Presbyterian church with Rev. M. Rudolph Miller performing the ring service before an altar, decorated with palms, ferns and garden flowers.

Preceding the service Miss Eleanor Bennett gave a brief organ program, using the Bridal Chorus from "Lohengrin" for the processional and "Mendelssohn's Wedding March" for the recessional. Miss Nelda Cartwright sang "At Dawning" and "I Love You Truly."

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. John McCoy, of Minerva. Attendants included Miss Ruth Williams as maid of honor and Mr. George Cain of Beaver Falls as Mr. Reda's best man. Ushers included Mr. James Cook of this city, Mr. Paris Frye of Beaver Falls, an uncle of the bridegroom, and Mr. Peter Reda of Beaver Falls, a cousin.

Gowned in double sheertone white net with a full court train, the bride also wore a fingertip veil caught in place with seed pearls and orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and baby breath. She is a graduate of the East Liverpool High school with the class of 1937 and previous to her marriage was employed with the American Paper Products Co. The maid of honor wore blue organza with a picture hat to match and her arm bouquet was of talisman roses.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served 40 guests in the home of the bride's aunts, Misses Tillie and Anna Perdune, Drury lane, with whom she has made her home. This afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Reda left for a honeymoon at Niagara Falls, N. Y., and upon their return will receive friends in a newly-furnished apartment at Ninth ave., Beaver Falls, where the bridegroom is associated with the Babcock-Wilcox Co.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Reda and daughter, Miss Dora, and Mr. and Mrs. Frye of Beaver Falls; Mrs. Eliza Carson and Mr. and Mrs. William Williams, Youngstown; Mrs. Saul McCoy Jr., and children, Mary Alice and Saul III, of Franklin, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Walters and Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Hayes of Richmond, O.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Adkins of 844 Lisbon st. announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Mary Martha Adkins, to Mr. Roy Burch Watson Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Watson of LaCroft. The ceremony took place May 15 at the parsonage of the Methodist church in Wellsburg, W. Va., with Rev. W. J. Frayer officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Henthorne were the attendants.

The bride wore a traveling costume of poudre blue with navy accessories and a corsage of gardenias. Mrs. Henthorne was attired in royal blue.

A wedding dinner was served in a restaurant in Steubenville.

Mr. and Mrs. Watson are residing with the bride's parents. The bridegroom is a boxer.

Celebrating the third birthday anniversary of their daughter, Nancy Ann, Mr. and Mrs. William Wolfe entertained a group of little friends Friday afternoon at the home of the honor guest's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. James Bloom, Dewey ave., East End.

This Three-Point Scrubbing Plan Will Assist Summertime Beauty

A sudsy brush, rubbed vigorously over the elbows, keeps that bothersome patch of skin smoother and pinker.

By BETTY CLARKE
Associated Press Staff Writer

THERE'S nothing new about taking a bath to beat the heat, nor anything unusual in trying to look as cool as possible in hot weather. But there are new ways of doing these things—inexpensive bubble baths and soap-and-water novelties—that help us relax and make our scrubbing easier. Last year more than 10 billion cakes of soap were sold in this country. And bath salts are a big item of our cosmetics bill.

There are three special areas that should get special scrubbing in hot weather—knees, elbows and heels. Use your back brush to help stimulate circulation in the knees.

If all your scrubbing doesn't make your knees as pink as you'd like them, there are beauty kits now that provide waterproof knee rouge to wear at the beach.

While you're scrubbing you might interpolate this exercise for the back of the knee. It will relax muscles that get tense from high heels. Sit on the floor, legs apart. Hold your left heel with your lef hand, then bend your left knee. Balancing yourself by keeping your right hand on the floor, push your left heel up and outward, straightening your leg. Alternate, repeating 10 times.

Back to scrubbing: If you're hotter than blazes when you come home from work, fill the tub a quarter full of cold water. Get in, then turn on the hot water, letting the tub warm up gradually. You'll feel cooler when you get out than you would have if you'd taken a cold bath.

Rest about 20 minutes with your head against the bath mat on the back of the tub, then reach for the brushes. The back brush can do not only for back and knees but for heels, too. The brushes should be sudsy with soap. That gives you two weapons against the oils and salts that summer perspiration deposits on your skin.

If your feet ache, give them a special treat by dissolving a generous quantity of baking soda (at least a large tablespoon to a quart of water) in your foot bath. For extra relaxation, bathe your feet in the wash basin. Lifting them that high rests them on the same principle that functions when a man props his feet on his desk.

Drive out to visit our display. Just see the beautiful chinaware, the gaily colored vases, pots, ash trays, and table bowls that line our shelves —all firmly molded to give lasting beauty and service.

BUYING FALTERS AS MARKET LAGS

Price Changes Meaningless On The Whole, However

By VICTOR EUBANK
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, July 20—The buying urge again was too feeble to count for much in today's stock market and leading issues generally followed a narrowly irregular lower route.

Price changes on the whole, however, were meaningless because of the continued slackness of dealings.

Brokers still blamed apathy mainly on the reluctance of speculative forces to take a decisive position pending the next major European war move.

Some Wall Street observers thought Hitler quickly might put into effect his threatened smash at England if the latter refuses to make peace. Fears of a possible market shock, if the British fail to hold, it was said, kept many traders in the safety zone.

Foreign Picture Watched

With most eyes centered on the foreign picture, domestic business and politics came in for only mild attention.

On the offside fractions to a point or so during most of the proceedings were Bethlehem, Chrysler, United Aircraft, Montgomery Ward, Eastman Kodak, Union Carbide, Loft, American Telephone, International Nickel and Pennsylvania.

Up a bit at one time or another were U. S. Steel, Goodyear, Woolworth, duPont, General Electric, Kennecott and Consolidated Edison.

Rails Wont Get Going

Those watching the steels noted forecasts next week's mill operations might register a modest increase above present high levels. At Pittsburgh, though, heavy melting steel scrap was cut 50 cents a ton.

Rails refused to get going notwithstanding a favorable omen was seen in the decision of the interstate commerce commission that the burden of maintaining industrial spur tracks should be borne by shippers. This ruling, it was suggested, might add several million dollars annually to transportation income.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, July 20—With weather continuing hot but showery in parts of the spring wheat and corn belts, grain prices had a steady tone in early dealings today.

Misses Vinnie Warner and Sadie VanFossan have left by bus for Chicago from where they will leave Sunday on a conducted tour of the west. They expect to be absent two weeks, during which time they will travel more than 6,000 miles on a special train, visiting Canada and west coast cities.

Harry C. Neigh of the Lisbon Lumber Co. is recovering at his home on North Market st., from a sun stroke suffered Friday morning while about his work. Mr. Neigh was assisting in unloading a car of lumber and was working in the hot sun when he was stricken and fell from the truck.

Miss Esther Binsley, vocalist, will sing two numbers during a recital by Mrs. Esther Odoran's voice class Sunday afternoon between 5 and 5:30 over station WKBN, Youngstown.

Casual Slaughters- By VIRGINIA HANSON

YESTERDAY: The only clues in the burnt car are a box of paper currency reduced to ashes and a regimental insignia. Later, at a bridge party, Sandra mentions knowing the new chaplain.

CHAPTER 11
The Movies

I COULDN'T help noticing that Mimi was lonely, with the loneliness of one who is fighting a losing battle alone. I didn't know what the battle was about. I thought it concerned Julia; and in a way I was right. And I did not consciously refuse her offer of friendship. Rather, I did not recognize it for more than a hospitable gesture. I wish now that I had gone to see her as she asked. I wonder if it would have made any difference.

Chairs at the next table scraped back and two women came toward us. Felicia's racy chatter preceded her. I don't remember what she was talking about. I was looking at Mimi, whose back was turned to them, and I saw her stiffen. Only for an instant. As they took their seats she was again her normal, friendly self.

I went to bed early that night to make up lost sleep, and the next morning we rode again. Adam had not yielded to my weak plea that it really wasn't safe. He again wore his service automatic in its holster, and of course nothing happened. Nothing except that my muscles, grateful for a day's rest, cooperated a little and I began to sense dimly why people who ought to know better climb on horses and go lumbering about the countryside.

"There's no hop tonight," Adam observed as we walked the horses back toward the post. "It's the odd Friday night. What would you like to do?"

"But you're going to that party the Dumbguards are giving for Sandra."

"Oh, no I'm not. Not without you to brighten things up. I've been to their parties."

I looked at him in dismay.

"But, Adam, I don't want you refusing invitations because I'm not included. I'm not your guest—well, in a sense I am, I wouldn't have the privilege of staying at the club if you hadn't secured it for me. But if we were staying at the same resort you wouldn't feel called upon to drag me everywhere—"

"How do you know I wouldn't? I'm a simple, direct man. I do what I like to do, as far as possible. And in this case it is possible. I don't have to accept that old hatchet's invitations for the entirely delightful reason that I rank her husband a few files."

"What does that mean?"

"It means that barring some very improbable break for him, when he might but won't be appointed a brigadier general while I languish in the ranks of the mere colonels—I say, barring that almost impossible future event, he will never have an opportunity to write an unfavorable opinion of me on my annual efficiency report—an opinion that I am a fellow lacking the social graces. If you must know, she's got an old-maid sister living with her, and it would be so nice to keep her right in the regiment—I'm a man of mature years, you understand, old enough to evaluate at their true worth the froth and frivolity of mere youth—"

Our laughter soared off across the flat landscape. The horses tossed their heads and looked back at us, eyes rolling.

We went to the movies that night.

I liked the little post theater. It was new and clean and uncrowded, with the friendly informality of a small club where all the members know one another. Tonight the block of seats reserved for officers was nearly empty, probably because of the party for Sandra. Felicia was there with a woman Adam told me was an army nurse. There were a few other officers and their wives with whom I had a bowing acquaintance.

"I expect Gerald Beaufort would have been glad to come with us," I said while we waited for the lights to go down. "Wonder how he spends his evenings?"

"Curling his eyelashes," Adam growled. "Oh! So that's why you wanted me to go to the party?"

"Having no secrets from you makes life a little dull," I complained. "Don't you think you might learn to dissemble? How would you like me to X-ray your mental processes?"

To my surprise he looked suddenly gray and tired. And then I decided it was only a trick of the fading light. The theater was growing dusky. The newsreel had already begun.

Shortly after the feature picture started someone came in and sat down near us. I was not sufficiently curious to spare a glance from the screen, and it was not until the picture was over and the lights went on that I saw it was the chaplain.

He looked as if he had sat next to a snake when he recognized us. He ducked toward the side entrance, but was halted there by the congestion of leisurely departures and had to let us overtake him.

I doubt if I would have known him by his face alone which, as Mimi had implied, looked as if it had been the target of professional fists. His eyes were swollen nearly shut, his lips were puffy and his cheeks mottled and discolored. Bandages swathed his hands, and he bore himself as if other parts of his anatomy still suffered. But he was in uniform, not too well fitting, and the silver crosses he wore left no doubt of his identity.

Adam said, "Good evening, Chaplain. It is Chaplain Henry, isn't it? You'll forgive me for not being sure, but your appearance is considerably altered."

The chaplain darted him a suspicious glance, but Adam seemed only gently concerned.

"Ah yes. Yes indeed. Quite so. I'm afraid I did not see you at first. Maj. Drew, I believe. And—er—the young lady."

Adam formally introduced us and the little man so far regained his composure as to bob his head at me. But he did not meet my eyes, and I knew that he was remembering the extreme informality of our last encounter.

As we emerged into the hot darkness of the summer evening he would have escaped us, but Adam held him in conversation, drew from him the admission that he had been released from the hospital that afternoon and that he was going back now to bachelor quarters. So, as we were going there, too, there was nothing for it but to fall into step with us.

Inside the theater I had been amused by the sound of pedantic syllables falling from the swollen lips of that ruffian countenance. But as we strolled along in the friendly darkness I began to realize what it would mean to such a painfully serious man to be the subject of a whole garrison's mirth.

The added fact that he was a chaplain made it something of a tragedy. A chaplain's duties are broader in scope than those of most men of the cloth. He conducts a weekly nonsectarian service for such of the garrison as care to attend, but his chief work is among the men. He is rather like a social director, a Rotary club and a Y.M.C.A. all in one, and Adam had told me that a good chaplain is the enlisted man's guide, counselor and friend. It would be too bad if this were to impair his usefulness by making him only a figure of fun.

'A Ruined Man'

He was thawing a little under Adam's sympathetic attention. I kept out of the conversation because I thought he would prefer not to be reminded of my existence, and presently he was doing all the talking, recapitulating, in a rather plaintive way, the circumstances of his arrival in the post. Adam put in a quiet question now and then, but the chaplain seemed unable to add anything to what he had already told.

"They've given me back my car," he said in conclusion. "Naturally, I have been unable to drive it as yet—my hands—but I expect to find it has been abused. I think one need hardly doubt that a ruffian of that type would have no compunction at driving a new car at a high rate of speed."

"Probably not," Adam agreed cheerfully. "And if, as seems likely, the same man stole Mrs. Bridewell's car he sped himself to his own punishment. A punishment considerably more drastic than the law would impose."

"That is so," agreed the chaplain. "The ways of providence are strange."

Did I imagine it, or was he a little impressed that providence had taken a hand in his revenge?

We entered the club by the door of the guest wing. My rooms were the first on the right. I asked them both in, but the illumination of the corridor must have reminded the chaplain of his embarrasing plight, for he declined and pattered stiffly toward the rear of the building. We watched him until he reached a door near the end of the corridor—the quiet rooms he had requested—then I preceded Adam into my sitting room.

"That's a ruined man," he said somewhat compassionately.

"What do you mean?" I asked although I thought I knew. And I was right. Adam's thoughts had been paralleling mine.

"I mean that soldiers are like children in one respect, at least. Once let them get the idea that a thing, or in this case a person, is funny, and they will never take it seriously again."

Julia had taken me at my word and put in an appearance shortly after breakfast that morning. I had stopped work long enough to make her welcome, then turned back to my typewriter.

She spent the morning prowling back and forth in my two rooms, as noiseless and as passionately restrained as a caged cat. Or she would lie stiff and silent on the studio couch, smoking cigarets, lighting one from another with quiet ferocity.

Suddenly she muttered a hurried goodby, snatched her hat and left. I called after her to ask her to stay to lunch but she did not seem to hear me.

"Hello, Jeff," she was saying breathlessly, out in the corridor.

"Hello."

His voice like himself, expressionless.

Faltering footsteps, an instant of charged silence. Then—

"Be seeing you," in Julia's suddenly too-jaunty voice.

Footsteps again, diminishing rapidly within the building. And from my window I had seen Julia's departing back, too straight in compensation for the weight of her defeat.

The New Castle Refractories turned back T. S. & T.'s bid for a tie for first place in Y-Pottery loop in the opening game Friday night by collecting eight runs to T. S. & T.'s seven, and in the second game the Edwin M. Knowles ten took a 7-6 win from the Homer Laughlin team.

Judy opened the scoring for T. S. & T. with a run in the opening inning, while T. Stoy tied the count for New Castle in the second. Rice came home to give T. S. & T. a 2-1 lead in the opening of the third. Coming up in the third New Castle turned on the heat and shoved across five runs with Althars, Darrah, Stewart and Stauffer collecting singles. Bennett singled and House tripled giving them a 6-2 lead.

Trailing 6-2 T. S. & T. staged a scoring spree in the fourth and Mackall, Lyons, Rose, Allison and Rice chalked up runs, giving them a 7-6 lead.

Going into the seventh, Althars singled and Darrah doubled for New Castle, with Althar coming in to tie the score. Murphy and T. Stoy were intentionally passed to give an opportunity for a double play. With the bases filled Pilgrim lined one out to the shortstop that escaped him, allowing Darrah to romp home with the winning run.

In the second game Edwin M. Knowles took a four run lead in first inning. Homer Laughlins collected one run in the third when Featherstone singled and Marshall sent him home with a triple. F. Davis chalked up a run in the third for Knowles, after tripling and came home when the throw to third failed to catch him. Laughlins added a second run in the fourth when Mosser scored.

In the fifth Laughlins batted their way into a tie when Reardon and Sharkey led off with singles. Booth reached first on an error to fill the bases and Mosser cleaned the sacks with a home run to tie the count at 6-6. Laughlins failed to score in the sixth, but Deitz drew a walk and came home ahead of Riser's double to give Knowles a 7-6 lead. Laughlins failed to tie the count in their half of the seventh inning with the game ending 7-6 in favor of Knowles.

CALIFORNIAN TO FACE M'NEILL IN 'FINALS'

By The Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, July 20—A young Californian turned giant-killer moved into the finals of the Maryland-Middle Atlantic Tennis tournament today and came face to face with the biggest giant of them all in this meet—towering Don McNeill, Kenyon college ace and third-ranking player in the nation.

Jack Kramer, of Belvedere Gardens, Calif., just another entry when the tourney started Monday, came up from the ranks to mow down two seeded players and win the right to battle top-seeded McNeill for the championship.

He conquered Welby Van Horn, 19-year-old Los Angeles player seeded second, in Friday's semi-finals.

McNeill moved up with a straight-set victory over third seeded Elwood Cooke, of Portland, Ore.

CUBS, DODGERS STAGE FREE-FOR-ALL FOR LADIES. The pennant-chasing Brooklyn Dodgers and the Chicago Cubs provided 17,500 Ladies day fans with unscheduled, but diverting, entertainment when they tangled in a free-for-all fight in the eighth inning of the game which the Cubs finally won, 11 to 4. Manager Gabby Hartnett of the Cubs is shown here, center, holding back Dodger Outfielder Joe Gallagher, No. 2, while an umpire strives to restore order. Members of both teams rushed on the field and tangled after Pitcher Claude Passeau of the Cubs hurled his bat at Pitcher Hugh Casey of the Dodgers when Casey hit Passeau with what the latter thought was a "bean" ball.

Farley May Have To Pass Out Comps Next Year To Games; Baseball's Only "Z" Combination At 2nd At Durham; Carleton And Davis Near 100 Mark

By EDDIE BRIETZ
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, July 20—Scoop: Look for Lew Jenkins and Bob Montgomery to sign before the day is over for a non-title fight in Philly's Shibe park on or about Aug. 19. . . .

Baseball banter: Wonder how many of those Democratic delegates who yelled for Farley are gonna remind him next year that they did—and ask for passes to the Yankee home games?. . . . Baseball's only "Z" combination at second base is in Durham. Zelasko at short and Zapor at second. . . Shaving down his real monicker of Shultehenrich made Ham Schulte of the Phils popular with the printers. . . . Couple of Fred (200 victories) Fitzsimmons' Brooklyn buddies are near the 100 game mark. Tex Carleton needs two more and Curt Davis is shy just five.

Lew Jenkins may show before the home folks in Dallas soon, meeting Leo Rodak before the summer's over. . . . Tip: Sam L. Murbarger, Indiana's one man commish, is being tabbed as the next NBA prexy and Winston Salem will get the 1941 convention. . . . We can hear scouts singing the praises of Huck Geary, young Minneapolis shortstop, clear back here. . . . Is Chet Kozel, 220 pound tackle, going to make ole Miss forget Bruiser Kinnard?

One minute interview.

Fred Haney, St. Louis Browns Manager: "Since the team is really hustling and it isn't possible for me to put my finger on any one weakness that can be corrected, there's nothing for me to do but tell the boys funny stories and wait for the sun to shine again."

Recommended reading: The series of "Hitting Hints" old Raj Hornsby is doing for the Daily Oklahoman, And who should know better? . . . Henry Thomas, the old expert, says the horse that beats Milestone will win the Hambletonian. . . . Jimmy Hitchcock of the Columbus Red Birds may give up the diamond for good to become a full time member of the Auburn grid coaching staff. . . .

Today's guest star.

Jack Miley, New York "Post": "You folks who have been shedding tears for the Yankees can now dry your eyes. For the Yanks need sympathy just like Roosevelt needs public speaking lessons."

TONY ZALE CAPTURES MIDDLEWEIGHT TITLE

By The Associated Press.

SEATTLE, July 20 — A hard-punching Polish boy from the Gary, Ind., steel mills was the new owner of the National Boxing Association's Middleweight Championship today, and he owes his newly won bauble to a kidney punch.

Tony Zale, the handsome 26-year-old blonde battler, won the crown Friday night with a 13th round technical knockout over Al Hostak of Seattle. Tony weighed 158, Hostak 158½.

Hostak, with iron chin and brittle hands, had never been on the floor before, much less knocked out, but Zale floored him thrice—not with blows to the jaw, but with deadly right-hand kidney punches which drew loud "oofs" from Hostak as they landed.

After Hostak went down helpless for the third time, Referee Benny Leonard, the former lightweight champion, heeded the towel waving of Hostak's manager, Eddie Marino, and stopped the slaughter.

Nation's Best To Show Skill In Casting Play

Local Club To Hold Annual Tournament Here Sunday

Some of the nation's best casters will attend the Fifth Annual Casting tournament Sunday of the local Tri-State Casting club to be held at its club pools in Oakmont beginning at 9:30 a. m.

The local casters will be led by Clyde W. Marshall, who recently won the All-Around championship at the two-day Ohio State Casting tournament at Garfield park, Cleveland.

Some of the well known casters who will be present are: Dr. R. P. Merrill, N.A.A.C.C. secretary and wet fly expert; Russell Smith, N.A.A.C.C. reporter for the Outdoors magazine; U. J. Bower, ⅝-oz. Accuracy Central U. S. Champion from Akron; E. Cline from Cleveland, former ⅝-oz. Accuracy Champion; E. Liotta Jr., Distance Fly National Champion who was recently defeated by Clyde W. Marshall; Mrs. E. Liotta Sr., Ladies' ⅝-oz. Accuracy Champion; Merle Crooks of Columbus, an All-Around Distance Plug Champion; and Junior Bower of Akron, Central U. S. Junior Casting Champion.

The list of events for the day include: distance fly, ladies' ⅝ oz. accuracy bait, junior ⅝ oz. accuracy bait, ⅝ oz. accuracy bait open, ⅝ oz. accuracy bait open, wet fly accuracy, dry fly accuracy and the fisherman's accuracy.

The distance fly event is new to the Tri-State tournament, but it should prove popular with the new casters and spectators as it has in the larger championship matches.

The Ladies' and Juniors' ⅝ oz. accuracy events will be held especially for the visiting Ladies and Juniors who are just beginning the game.

The ⅝ oz. and ⅝ oz. accuracy bait, fisherman's accuracy, wet and dry fly events are the five basic events for any tourney regardless how large or how small it may be, many of which have been donated by the local merchants.

Ten prizes will be given in each contest to be played. An excellent list of prizes has been compiled, including Winston casting rods, which are of the finest make, rods, cameras, reels, baits, lines and many other suitable gifts.

The public is cordially invited to attend the tournament and participate in the giving away of two grand gate prizes.

RHODE ISLAND TO HOLD GRAND CIRCUIT RACING

By The Associated Press.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 20—Grand Circuit racing returns to Rhode Island today for the first time in 33 years.

The circuit moves here from a five-day meeting at Goshen, N. Y., which closed Friday night with two Ohio entries capturing top events.

Modern Boy, owned and driven by H. M. Parshall of Urbana, won in straight heats the featured second division of the historic trot, carrying a purse of $640. The bay colt, a candidate for the Hambletonian stake, finished in 2:11 and 2:09¾.

Hector Volo, bay gelding owned by B. A. Millikan of Youngstown and driven by George Hunter, took straight heats in the second division of the handicap pace in times of 2:15 and 2:11¼. The event offered a $500 purse.

BASEBALL TOURNEY OPENS

SPRINGFIELD, July 20 — Eight teams were scheduled for action today in the second round of Ohio's Qualifier for the National Semi-Pro Baseball congress at Wichita, Kas., next month. In opening games Friday night the Columbus Bolt Works defeated the Lima Superior Bodies, 9 to 4, while the Columbus Federal Glass nine took the Springfield International Harvesters, 7 to 6.

Yanks Coming Is New 'Chant' As Tribe Bows

Score 15-6 Third Straight Triumph Over Cleveland

By BILL WHITE
Associated Press Sports Writer

To borrow a tin pan alley phrase: The Yanks are coming.

Looking more and more like the club that pulverized the American league for four straight years, the Yanks sounded a note that must have been grimly familiar with yesterday's 15-6 third-straight victory over the erstwhile league-leading Cleveland Indians.

For the Yankees did it their trade-marked way—via homeruns. Babe Dahlgren hit two, Buddy Rosar, who has sparked the current drive, got another — along with a single, double and triple for a perfect day—and Joe Gordon got the fourth. He hit it on a three-and nothing pitch, believe it or not

In battering down the Indians three-in-a-row, the Yanks picked on pretty fair pitchers — Bobby Feller, Al Milnar and Al Smith—while running the Indians' losing streak to six straight.

Seven runs in the first inning did the damage Friday and the note of glee in the Yankee dressing room was marred only by the thought that Lefty Gomez will be out for a week or 10 days. He was struck on the pitching hand by a ball off Roy Weatherly's bat.

Meanwhile the Detroit Tigers tightened their hold on first place by shutting out the Boston Red Sox, 4-0, behind the seven hit hurling of Tommy Bridges. Rudy York hit a homer with one on.

Thornton Lee stopped the five-game winning streak of the amazing Washington Senators, 9-1, with a five-hit job. The White Sox pounded Walter Masterson and Joe Karakauskas for a dozen hits. Lee allowed only one Senator to get as fair as second base after the second inning and yielded only two hits in the last six frames.

Johnny Berardino's homer with one on in the ninth was the winning margin as the St. Louis Browns snapped a 14-game losing streak by beating the Athletics, 9-7.

In the National league, the Cincinnati Reds remained three games ahead of the Brooklyn Dodgers since both absorbed beatings. The Reds outhit the Boston Bees, but lost, 8-7, when the Bees bunched four safeties with two Cincinnati errors in the seventh inning.

The Chicago Cubs counted on Hank Lieber and Bill Nicholson for an 11-4 victory over the Dodgers. Hank homered with three on and Nicholson slammed a four bagger with one on. The game was marred by a fistic free-for-all when Hugh Casey hit Claude Passeau with a pitched ball. Passeau tossed his bat at Casey—and the fireworks were on. Passeau and Joe Gallagher, who led the Dodger skirmishers were banished from the game.

The St. Louis Cardinals snatched a pair of victories from the Phils, 3-2 and 5-3, both with late inning rallies. In the first Kirby Higbe allowed only one hit for six innings, but the Cards rose in the seventh and eighth to win. In the second game Johnny Rizzo's 12th homer gave the Phils a 3-2 edge in the eighth, but Ernie Koy pumped one over the fence to score behind Enos Slaughter, who had walked. Then Joe Orengo doubled and Martin Marion singled him home.

Hal Schumacher gave the Giants a 52 win over the Pirates. He batted in three runs with a triple, and got credit for his seventh victory though the 90 degree heat wore him down and he had to be relieved.

TEAM RECRUITS ASKED IN SWIMMING MATCH

Manager Robert F. Larkins at the municipal swimming pool today announced a swimming match has been arranged here next week-end with Steubenville and called for recruits on a team to represent East Liverpool.

The Steubenville pool will be represented with swimmers and divers. Local swimmers, between 16 and 25, who wish to take part should contact Mr. Larkins at the city pool. Matches probably will be arranged with other district communities.

LEGION TOPS IRISHTOWN AS ELKS AND HALLS TIE IN JUNIOR LEAGUE TILTS

American Legion Overcomes Three Run Lead In Win As Haney Allows Irish Four Hits; Elks Lose Early Game Leadership As Halls Score Four Times

The American Legion nine overcame a three-run lead to defeat Irishtown, 7-3, at Patterson field and Hall China battled to a 4-4 extra-inning tie with the Elks at Upper Columbian park Friday night in East Liverpool Junior league contests.

Irishtown tallied all three of their counters in the second frame to take the lead over the Legion, but the winners increased their second-place position by tallying once in the third and then staged a six-run scoring spree in the last of the fourth to win the game.

At the Upper Columbian field the Elks seemed to take up where they left off last night, after downing the league-leading Riverview team, by scoring three times their first trip to the plate. Their lead was increased by one more marker in the second and the game was apparently on ice, but the other team had different ideas. Halls pushed across two markers in the last of the second and then tied up the tilt by tallying twice in the third to throw the game into an extra inning of play, when it was called because of darkness.

The fans at Patterson field witnessed some fine hurling by Haney of the Legion and Dawson and Bowersock of the Irish. Haney worked the entire contest for the winners and allowed four blows, three of which were collected by Irishtown when they scored three times in the second inning and the fourth came in the sixth. Dawson started on the mound for the losers but gave way to Bowersock in the fourth when the Legion hit a batting streak. Between them they gave up six safeties.

Porter Mackey, Legion first baseman, stole the batting honors for the evening's show by collecting two for two, while Thurm Allen for the Irish drove out two singles out of three times at the plate.

Dick Treleven pitched for the Elks and Clarence Smith hurled for Halls with the latter allowing five hits and the former six. Treleven fanned 10 batters, while Smith struck out seven.

Jimmy Webb took the limelight again tonight, after starring last evening against Riverview, by collecting three safeties of the Elks' six and Bob Dunn and Duane Copestick each lined out two for Halls. Both Webb and Dunn connected for two-baggers.

THREE 'FOUTTS' MEN FIGHT MONDAY NIGHT

Three boxers undefeated under the management of Ray Foutts will appear on the boxing card at Hickey park, Pittsburgh, Monday night.

They are Mike Raffa of Newell, Tommy Yarosz of Monaca and Jimmy Thompson of Pittsburgh.

Raffa meets Marcus Pitts of Washington, D. C., in a 10-round battle; Yarosz, a welterweight, will clash in a four-rounder with Red Creegan of Pittsburgh, and Thompson, Pittsburgh heavyweight, will battle Mickey McAvoy of New York in an eight-round bout.

Glenns Edge Irwins

Ray Timberlake won a pitching duel from Paul Smith Friday night, when the Glenn Signs softball team defeated the Irwin Machinists, 2-1 at Shively's field. Both hurlers allowed two hits. Reeder homered for Glenns with Purdell crossing the plate before him to tally the winning runs. Glenns will play a double-header at Salineville Sunday, beginning at 1:30.

OHIO FISHING REACHES PEAK DURING MID-JULY

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, July 20—Ohio fishing is at its peak.

Mid-July, the period between the spawning season and the blooming of lake weeds, provides a greater variety of species and larger catches than at other times and stream and lake conditions are generally good, state game protectors said.

Lake Erie fishermen were informed that wall-eyed pike had started to run in schools around the islands and the limit could be taken in a short time by deep trolling.

White bass also have begun to appear in schools in the lake. Experts advise casting and trolling with small white spinners for this catch.
